Engaging ideas, transforming minds

Founded over 35 years ago, Canadian Scholars remains one of Canada's leading independent higher education publishers. We seek to offer books that showcase the work of established and emerging scholars in Canada while also balancing this unique Canadian perspective with international content. Canadian Scholars is committed to producing progressive research and scholarship that represent significant contributions to academic literature in a variety of disciplines.

Women's Press has a long and distinguished history and has played an important part in the proliferation of feminist writing in Canada. Founded in 1972 by a small collective of women and armed with a mandate to publish contemporary material by, for, and about Canadian women, Women's Press is Canada's oldest English-language feminist publisher. Forty-nine years later, Women's Press continues to publish high-quality scholarly writing in gender and women's studies.

Teaching Resources

Canadian Scholars and Women's Press textbooks have a wide range of pedagogical features and instructor supplements to take your syllabus to the next level. Connect with us to learn more about instructor guides, test banks, PowerPoint slides, in-class discussion questions, and more.

Digital Options

We are on hand to help you navigate distance learning options and digital offerings. We can provide guidance on choosing the digital format right for your course and accessibility solutions, as well as work with your institutional bookstore to make sure the formats needed are available.

Hands-On Support

We are committed to providing an unparalleled level of support, whether that be at the consideration stage of the review process or the facilitation of a course adoption. We will work collaboratively with you and your institutional bookstore to ensure that you and your students have everything you need for a successful term.

To get in touch with your Publisher's Representative, email:

info@canadianscholars.ca
With more classes turning to online delivery, we are pleased to offer an expanded range of digital formats. We now offer digital books in both PDF and EPUB formats. We’ve just introduced EPUBs, but our catalogue of available titles in this format is steadily growing.

Which digital format is right for your students?

EPUBs have reflowable text that adjusts to the screen size of a user’s device.

EPUBs are capable of including more bells and whistles and are sometimes preferred by accessibility offices.

PDFs have a fixed layout and will retain the formatting and page numbers of the print version of the book.

PDFs work best on large screens, like desktops, PCs, and tablet devices.

Both formats are offered at the same price point and feature powerful tools like highlighting, bookmarks, flashcards, note-taking capabilities, text-to-speech options, offline reading, and more.

Why not both? Let your students choose which format is best for them by making both EPUB and PDF formats available through your institutional bookstore or wherever your students find their eBooks.

To learn more about the digital options we have to offer and how you can adopt digital books for your courses, please visit our website at canadianscholars.ca/ebooks.
Understanding Project Management
DAVE C. BARRETT

In the second edition of Understanding Project Management, skilled expert Dave C. Barrett offers a well-updated, practical real-world guide for current and aspiring project managers. Using concise and approachable language, the second edition features new concept illustrations, a greater consistency with the Project Management Body of Knowledge terminology, and additional case studies in the updated instructor resources. Taking the reader through an ongoing case study from initiation to completion, the text reinforces the importance of managing key aspects of a project, including its scope, quality, schedule, and budget, and explores the less tangible challenges that can often derail a project or lead to its success.

This newly updated edition offers authentic project management documents produced alongside the project case study and equips readers with a solid understanding of why specific processes are used, why certain decisions are made, and how pieces of project management fit together. Suitable for any discipline or industry, Understanding Project Management, Second Edition, promises to be an engaging and worthwhile read.

Dave C. Barrett is a full-time Professor of Project Management and PM Program Coordinator at Conestoga College in Kitchener, Ontario. He joined Conestoga's School of Business in 2004, after working 21 years in the private industry, where he led large-scale IT integration projects. Barrett holds Bachelor of Math and Master of Business Administration degrees as well as his Project Management Professional designation.

FEATURES
• additional key terms, illustrations, practical examples, and references to the Project Management Body of Knowledge, Sixth Edition
• readers follow an ongoing case study, gaining insight into the thought processes and resulting actions of a project manager, including the creation of project documents
• robust instructor resources include new case studies that can be used for in-class activities and case study extensions of additional situations and problems to discuss with students

Praise for the first edition:
“Dave C. Barrett cuts through the jargon by simplifying the concepts through a series of fundamental principles and processes. Easy to read with lots of tips, cases, and examples, everyone, from beginners to the most experienced project managers, will learn something useful.”

—DEAN A. BULLOCH, PROFESSOR, SCHOOL OF BUSINESS, CONESTOGA COLLEGE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY AND ADVANCED LEARNING
Agile Project Delivery
A Practical Approach for Corporate Environments Beyond Software Development
AARON A. BLAIR

Agile Project Delivery: A Practical Approach for Corporate Environments Beyond Software Development reviews how various Agile methods can be applied to project management in complex corporate environments beyond the software development sphere. Readers will learn various techniques across the many methodologies that are part of the Agile family, including Scrum, XP, and Crystal, as well as some of Agile's influences, such as Lean and Kanban.

Written to bridge the gap between Agile methodology and application, this concise text features practical delivery approaches, specific case studies, unique templates to assist in Agile application, and chapter discussion questions to reinforce understanding on how to harness Agile techniques. With a wide focus on a variety of settings outside of software development, this pedagogically rich text is an invaluable resource for students in any project management course at the college and university levels as well as for both aspiring and experienced project practitioners.

Aaron A. Blair is a Professor of Project Management at Conestoga College and an accomplished executive and team builder with over 20 years of experience. Aaron is a strategic leader with a proven track record of building organizational capability, successfully delivering projects, and creating and managing high-performance teams across many major functions. He is a PMI Project Management Professional, a Certified Professional in Health Information and Management Systems, and a Certified Scrum Master.

Praise for this title:
“Providing helpful illustrations, case studies, and tools to demonstrate the concepts and an example of their implementation, this is a must-have book for anyone interested in learning about Agile.”

—JAMAL EL ALI, MBA, PMP, SCT, CSM, LECTURER, ENGINEERING, ARCHITECTURE AND SCIENCE, RYERSON UNIVERSITY

FEATURES
• offers advanced instructions on how to use Atlassian’s industry-leading Agile software, Jira
• discusses the application of Agile methods in non–software development industries, featuring case studies that follow a project manager working through a large health care–related project
• features lists of key terms, case studies, templates, informative figures, discussion questions, and a concluding glossary
• includes lecture slides and an exam test bank for instructors
Strategic Communication in Canada
Planning Effective PR Campaigns
BERNARD GAUTHIER

Informed by decades of agency experience, Bernard Gauthier prepares aspiring public relations students to think strategically as they plan and create campaigns. In the first part of the book, readers will be taken through the main phases of conducting a situation analysis—a prerequisite to developing strategy. In part two, readers will move from raw materials to finished, polished strategy. Readers will then use a planning model to help organize knowledge and draw conclusions. This easy-to-follow text features 10 chapters packed with practical advice and study tools, such as learning objectives, key terms and concepts, and critical reflection questions.

This textbook is an essential, to-the-point read for students studying public relations and marketing communication; business strategy; and journalism and public affairs.

Professional Communications in the Public Sector
A Practical Guide
TED GLENN

In this enterprising text, Ted Glenn equips fledgling public sector communications professionals with the information they need to be successful in their new roles. Leveraging his years of experience in this growing field, Glenn discusses how to present policy goals to different audiences and tailor messages to their needs, write gripping speeches, and use digital media in a world where one ill-phrased tweet can sink a career. Chapters are enriched with activities that walk students through the many responsibilities of public service professionals and encourage them to think strategically in quickly evolving situations. Professional Communications in the Public Sector is indispensable reading for students of public administration, communications, policy studies, media studies, and advertising.

Ted Glenn is a Professor and Program Coordinator of Public Administration at Humber College. An advisor to various Canadian governments for over 20 years, Dr. Glenn specializes in public sector training and governance.

Introduction to Mental Health for Child and Youth Care
PATTI RANAHAN AND STANLEY KUTCHER, WITH MINA HASHISH

Recognizing the importance of mental health literacy, Introduction to Mental Health for Child and Youth Care is specifically designed to meet the professional practice needs of child and youth care practitioners. The first half examines the practitioner’s role in mental health care, issues with interprofessional communication and self-care, Indigenous perspectives on wellness, cultural safety and continuity, stigma, the domains of brain functioning, and how diagnoses are ascertained. Specific attention toward understanding mental health care through the theoretical perspectives of resilience, attachment, and trauma-informed care and unpacking the process of suicide intervention is offered. The second half addresses symptoms and interventions of various disorders common in child and adolescent populations, including mood disorders, anxiety disorders, feeding and eating disorders, and autism spectrum disorder, in reference to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders.

Readers will appreciate the organized structure, up-to-date content, and practical approach used in this textbook. Introduction to Mental Health for Child and Youth Care is an essential resource in mental health courses in child and youth care, human services, and social work programs.

Patti Ranahan is an Associate Professor in Applied Human Sciences at Concordia University. Her child and youth care practice experience spans a range of settings, including residential care, outpatient mental health, and family support. Stanley Kutcher is a Professor Emeritus of Psychiatry in the Faculty of Medicine, Dalhousie University. He is an internationally acknowledged expert in youth mental health and was appointed to the Senate of Canada in 2018. Mina Hashish is a health care professional, researcher, and writer in the field of child and adolescent mental health.

FEATURES
• includes examples of evidence-based and emerging interventions designed to address specific disorders
• features links to online videos and further readings, as well as reflective activities that can be implemented in class or group discussions to encourage further exploration

Praise for this title:
“It is clear that this book is written by people who understand both mental health and child and youth care practice. A much-needed resource for the child and youth care field.”

Child and Youth Care across Sectors, Vol. 2
Canadian Perspectives
EDITED BY KIARAS GHARABAGHI AND GRANT CHARLES

Child and Youth Care across Sectors aims to reflect the changing field by capturing a diverse array of themes and issues through an inclusive framework. In Volume 2, the contributors continue the discussion on sectors and contexts of child and youth care, with an emphasis on giving space and voice to different ways of thinking about and describing the field. Focusing on acknowledging and confronting the complex issues within child and youth care, this new volume includes groundbreaking chapters on pertinent topics from homelessness to immigration, anti-racism, African-centred praxis, and Indigenous ways of being. Expanding from the first volume, this text explores additional settings of child and youth care, including hospitals, schools, day treatment programs, and the complicated youth criminal justice sector.

As the field of child and youth care continues to evolve, this timely and thought-provoking text will be vital for students, scholars, and practitioners in child and youth care, in Canada and abroad.

Kiaras Gharabaghi is a Professor in the School of Child and Youth Care and the John C. Eaton Chair of Social Innovation and Entrepreneurship at Ryerson University. He has over 20 years of front-line experience in the child mental health, child welfare, and homelessness sectors. Grant Charles is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work and an affiliated faculty member in the Division of Adolescent Health and Medicine in the Faculty of Medicine at the University of British Columbia.

FEATURES
• incorporates discussions on Canada’s northern provinces and territories, specifically Labrador and Nunavut, in child and youth care contexts, which are regions typically neglected in the field
• includes chapters centering Indigenous ways of being and thinking, written by Indigenous scholars

Child and Youth Care across Sectors, Vol. 1
Canadian Perspectives
EDITED BY KIARAS GHRABAGHI AND GRANT CHARLES

A pivotal textbook in the field, this comprehensive collection is the first of two volumes that cross-examine all active child and youth care sectors across the human services. Co-editors Kiaras Gharabaghi and Grant Charles bring together world-renowned professionals, academics, and researchers to address the past, present, and future state of child and youth care. Guiding students through the exploration of a growing field, this volume examines practice in a range of service sectors including residential care, foster homes, schools, cyberspace, outdoor adventure settings, and services that support Quebecois, Deaf, autistic, and LGBTQ+ communities. With a strong foundation in Canadian scholarship, this text also draws connections to child and youth care practice in a global context.

International and Canadian students, scholars, and practitioners in child and youth care will benefit from this extensive and timely resource.

Kiaras Gharabaghi is a Professor in the School of Child and Youth Care and the John C. Eaton Chair of Social Innovation and Entrepreneurship at Ryerson University. He has over 20 years of front-line experience in the child mental health, child welfare, and homelessness sectors. Grant Charles is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work and an affiliated faculty member in the Division of Adolescent Health and Medicine in the Faculty of Medicine at the University of British Columbia.

Praise for this title:
“With this collection of valuable, stimulating, and visionary chapters, it becomes clear that CYC is a ‘profession on the move.’ The reflection on problems, tasks, and practices creates the image of a modern, self-confident profession in transition.”

—DR. CHRISTOPH STEINEBACH, PROFESSOR, DIRECTOR OF THE SCHOOL OF APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY, ZURICH UNIVERSITY OF APPLIED SCIENCES

FEATURES
• includes contributions from leading Canadian scholars, researchers, and professionals in the field of child and youth care
• analyzes the challenges, opportunities, and employment prospects in each sector
• establishes connections between chapters by cross-referencing the sectors, geographical regions, and contexts of other chapters

Child and Youth Care in the Field
A Practicum Guidebook
CARYS CRAGG

The first of its kind, this practicum-specific resource serves as an accompanying guidebook for fieldwork, placement, or classroom instruction in child and youth care practice. Child and Youth Care in the Field: A Practicum Guidebook uses critical reflection to facilitate student learning and growth throughout the practicum experience. Students can apply and build upon the theory and skills acquired during their fieldwork by utilizing the engaging workbook features and writing spaces included in the text. This resource helps prepare students for practicum and expand their self-awareness by discussing the challenges and difficulties they will encounter in the field, and by providing insight on how to navigate the decision-making process.

With the increasing need for a hands-on resource in child and youth care studies, this book is well suited for first year, field placement, and professional skills courses in child and youth care programs at the college and university level.

_Carys Cragg_ is faculty in Child, Family, and Community Studies at Douglas College, current coordinator of the Child and Youth Care program, past coordinator of the Aboriginal Stream, and teaches practicum in Child and Youth Care, Youth Justice, and the Aboriginal Stream. She has 15 years of experience working with children, youth, and their families in community mental health, crisis support, youth outreach, educational, research, program development, and quality assurance roles.

FEATURES
- includes checklists of child and youth care competencies, prompting discussion questions, practical exercises, and scenario examples for students to reflect on
- “Voices from the Field” sections provide valuable mentorship and insight
- reflective of diverse voices and scenarios in the child and youth care field

Praise for this title:
“Skillfully blends CYC theory and practice in ways that challenge both educators and students to experience their practicum journeys in diverse ways. Informed by youth voice, social justice, Truth and Reconciliation, and essential reflective practices, this book pushes the traditional CYC canon finally into the realities of contemporary Child and Youth Care.”

—HEATHER SNELL, LECTURER, CHILD AND YOUTH CARE, RYERSON UNIVERSITY AND UNIVERSITY OF STRATHCLYDE, AND FOUNDING MEMBER, CHILD AND YOUTH CARE EDUCATIONAL ACCREDITATION BOARD OF CANADA
Reflective Practice in Child and Youth Care
A Manual
DONICKA BUDD

A unique manual to the discipline, Reflective Practice in Child and Youth Care addresses the need for distinct models of reflective practice across all child and youth care (CYC) sectors. This groundbreaking work contextualizes the history of reflective practice and provides readers with the necessary tools to develop their own approach to reflective practice. Special topics and key concepts include reflective practice theory, the mindfulness-reflection connection, and transformative learning techniques. Aligned with the CYC Code of Ethics and the CYC Competencies of Professionalism, this book promotes self-awareness and critical self-reflection through case studies, end-of-chapter discussion questions, reflective writing templates, and self-assessment exercises.

Fostering reflective methods and self-care strategies that can be used in practicums and professional settings, this unique workbook is an essential resource for students at any stage of a college or university program in child and youth care.

Donicka Budd is currently practising as a Registered Psychotherapist. She holds over 20 years of front-line experience supporting children, youth, families, and staff teams through her work in residential homes, school boards, children’s mental health agencies, and private practices. She has also taught for 11 years in Child and Youth Care programs in Ontario colleges.

Praise for this title:
“Reflective practice is a difficult task—even for the most experienced practitioner ... and engaging students in the core concepts and providing practical examples are key for their implementation in practice. We need to put in the work, and Reflective Practice in Child and Youth Care provides the opportunity to do just that.”

—CHELAN MCCALLION, ASSISTANT PROGRAM DIRECTOR AT HULL SERVICES AND INSTRUCTOR, FACULTY OF HEALTH, COMMUNITY AND EDUCATION, CHILD STUDIES AND SOCIAL WORK, MOUNT ROYAL UNIVERSITY

FEATURES
- connects to concepts that are covered across child and youth care program courses, strengthening student comprehension
- provides exercises that range in content and depth to ensure student engagement throughout the completion of the textbook

A Tapestry of Relational Child and Youth Care Competencies
THERESA FRASER AND MARY VENTRELLA

This foundational resource is the first to explicitly detail the child and youth care (CYC) core competencies for students preparing to take the Child and Youth Care-Professional (CYC-P) certification exam. Designed according to the Child and Youth Care Certification Board (CYCCB), this book offers a comprehensive review of the five domains of CYC practitioner competencies: professionalism, cultural and human diversity, applied human development, relationship and communication, and developmental practice methods. Pedagogical tools bring concepts to life through critical discussion and reflection. The text is packed with tables, reflection questions, end-of-chapter reference lists, glossary terms, and real-world case studies. A unique and practical textbook, this is an indispensable resource for introductory courses in child and youth care programs.

Theresa Fraser is a Professor of Child and Youth Care at Sheridan College. She is a Registered Psychotherapist and Registered Counselling Therapist. Mary Ventrella is a Certified Child and Youth Counsellor and Registered Psychotherapist who holds her PhD in Counseling Studies from Capella University.

A Hard Place to Call Home
A Canadian Perspective on Residential Care and Treatment for Children and Youth
KIARAS GHRABAGHI

This well-timed resource offers the child and youth services community a positive, constructive, and revolutionary framework for residential care and treatment that is fundamentally based on a partnership between caregivers and young people, their families, neighbourhoods, and communities. By drawing on organizational examples from across Canada, Gharabaghi exposes how the historical dynamics of mediocrity and complacency have led to inadequate standards and practices within the system. Dr. Gharabaghi’s sophisticated and provocative analysis of the system’s key issues is an essential resource for students, practitioners, and educators in the field of child and youth care and human services more broadly.

Kiaras Gharabaghi is a Professor in the School of Child and Youth Care and the John C. Eaton Chair of Social Innovation and Entrepreneurship at Ryerson University. He has over 20 years of front-line experience in the child mental health, child welfare, and homelessness sectors.

Child and Youth Mental Health in Canada
Cases from Front-Line Settings
EDITED BY PATRICIA KOSTOUROS AND BRENDA THOMPSON

Child and Youth Mental Health in Canada is a practical guide for front-line practitioners who look beyond diagnostic labels. Offering a progressive response to mental health concerns that is humane and effective, the text focuses on understanding behaviour and intervening from a relational perspective. This discussion illuminates setting-appropriate interventions and activities to meet the needs of practitioners and clients, including the unique needs of immigrant, refugee, Indigenous, and LGBTQ+ children and youth. Written by scholars and professionals in the field, this edited collection is an essential learning resource for students in child and adolescent mental health courses in child and youth care, psychology, social work, and nursing.

Patricia Kostouros is an Associate Professor in the Department of Child Studies and Social Work at Mount Royal University. Brenda Thompson is an Instructor in both the Child and Youth Care Bachelor Degree and the Correctional Services Diploma Program at MacEwan University.

The Mentors Among Us
Cases in the Human Services
MELISSA ROTHWELL AND KELLY MAZEROLLE

The Mentors Among Us takes a close look at the demands and strains students will face in the field and offers expertise and advice on best practices. This interactive choose-your-own-path format encourages critical thinking and collaborative discussion, inspiring students to think like professionals. A range of vital and timely topics are covered, including ethics, discrimination, parental rights, mental health, education, youth justice, abuse, addiction, confidentiality, and trauma.

This book is enhanced by a companion website with links to further readings and audio clips of the mentors’ stories, which support multiple learning styles and bring the content to life. The Mentors Among Us is well suited to introductory courses in human services, child and youth care, social service work, and early learning and child care programs.

Melissa Rothwell is the Program Head for both the Community Mental Health and the Child and Youth Care programs at Lakeland College. Kelly Mazerolle is the Program Head for the Early Learning and Child Care program at Lakeland College and has taught in the human services for 16 years.

Youth and Society
The Long and Winding Road, Third Edition
VAPPU TYYSKÄ

In this essential third edition, Vappu Tyyskä examines the challenges faced by today’s young people through a critical lens. Difficult questions related to such issues as employment, education, social pressure, identity, and crime are explored by Tyyskä as she paints a fascinating picture of modern youth in three countries: Canada, the United States, and the United Kingdom. The author explores the negative stereotypes surrounding young people and argues that it is time to contextualize our understanding of youth by addressing the underlying social, economic, and political issues they face. This new edition incorporates updated statistics, comprehensive tables, and revised narratives in which the author explores topics pertinent to today’s youth, such as the influence of social media, eating disorders, and recent changes to the juvenile justice system.

Vappu Tyyskä is Professor of Sociology at Ryerson University where she is also affiliated with and teaches in the MA Program in Immigration and Settlement Studies and the PhD Program in Policy Studies. Her major areas of research include immigrant families, youth, gender, and family relations.

Canadian Communication Policy and Law
SARA BANNERMAN

Canadian Communication Policy and Law provides a uniquely Canadian perspective on telecommunications policy, broadcasting policy, internet regulation, freedom of expression, censorship, defamation, privacy, government surveillance, intellectual property, and more. Taking a critical stance, Sara Bannerman draws attention to unequal power structures by asking the question, whom does Canadian communication policy and law serve?

Key theories for analysis of law and policy issues—such as pluralist, libertarian, critical political economy, Marxist, feminist, queer, critical race, critical disability, postcolonial, and intersectional theories—are discussed in detail in this accessibly written text. From critical and theoretical analysis to legal research and citation skills, Canadian Communication Policy and Law encourages deep analytic engagement. Serving as a valuable resource for students who are undertaking research and writing on legal topics for the first time, this comprehensive text is well suited for undergraduate communication and media studies programs.

Sara Bannerman, Canada Research Chair in Communication Policy and Governance, is an Associate Professor of Communication Studies at McMaster University. She researches and teaches on communication policy and governance and directs McMaster’s Communications Governance Observatory. She has published two books on international copyright, as well as numerous peer-reviewed articles and book chapters on international copyright, privacy, and other topics in new media, traditional media, and communications theory.

FEATURES
- includes a practical chapter on how to do legal and policy research and how to cite legal sources
- contains in-text pedagogy including suggested readings and a comprehensive glossary

Praise for this title:
“At last, a book on Canadian communication policy that integrates critical theory including political economy, gender, and race-based approaches, as well as Indigenous and postcolonial analysis. Bannerman’s crystal-clear prose and exhaustive research provide readers with the definitive guide to who benefits from public policy in a digital age.”

—VINCENT MOSCO, QUEEN’S UNIVERSITY, AUTHOR OF THE SMART CITY IN A DIGITAL WORLD
Praise for this title:
“Tailor-made for the Canadian audience, the text is up to date in communication technologies and current political and social issues. The Spaces and Places of Canadian Popular Culture
EDITED BY VICTORIA KANNEN AND NEIL SHYMINSKY

An exclusively Canadian textbook, this collection investigates the relationships between identity, geography, and popular culture that are produced and consumed in Canada. Expanding beyond the clichés of friendliness and snow, this text provides a fresh perspective on what it means to be Canadian, both nationally and transnationally. Scholars look at historical subjects like Quebecois identity and Indigenous self-representation and explore issues in contemporary media, including music, film, television, comic books, video games, and social media. From Drake to the Tragically Hip, Trailer Park Boys to The Amazing Race Canada, and poutine to maple syrup, mainstream icons and trends are studied in the interdisciplinary context of race, gender, sexuality, politics, and patriotism. This unique resource will engage students and scholars of communication studies, cultural studies, and Canadian studies.

Victoria Kannen writes and teaches on the subjects of identity, privilege, education, and popular culture. She holds a PhD in Sociology and Equity Studies in Education from the University of Toronto. Neil Shyminsky is a Professor in the School of Justice, Community Services, and General Studies at Cambrian College. He is the artist of the book cover.

Media Literacy for Citizenship
A Canadian Perspective
KIRSTEN KOZOLANKA AND PAUL ORLOWSKI

Offering a critical perspective, Media Literacy for Citizenship emphasizes the ability to analyze media messages as a fundamental component of engaged citizenship. The first five chapters explore the landscape of the media today, while the next four chapters examine how the media presents specific topics including climate change, diversity, Indigeneity, war, and terror, and a final chapter concludes with a discussion of the role and future of journalism in society. Each chapter forms a mini-lesson and encompasses three core elements: an essay on a subject area important to critical media literacy, a list of case examples that can be used for assignments, and a list of key terms common to all chapters and cases.

The diverse topics of study and the rich pedagogy make this book a perfect resource for courses in communications, journalism, media studies, and education.

From Flappers to Rappers
The Origins, Evolution, and Demise of Youth Culture
MARCEL DANESI

Adopting a historical-critical perspective, From Flappers to Rappers traces the origins of youth in the Roaring Twenties, a distinct form of culture that was revived by the rock and roll rebels of the 1950s, to an increasingly inclusive digital era at the turn of the 21st century. Positioning youth culture as a 20th-century social experiment that is coming to an end, Marcel Danesi discusses the various musically defined eras that saw rise to hippie culture, punk, disco, and the hip-hop movement, among other social groups.

The chapters explore how these generations were instrumental in the fight against racial discrimination, gender discrimination, and sexual repression. This accessible book analyzes how society is evolving in an age of globalization and new technologies that threaten youth culture, and questions what this shift implies for the world today. This textbook is an invaluable resource for students and teachers of sociology, anthropology, and cultural studies.

Marcel Danesi is a Professor of Semiotics and Linguistic Anthropology in the Department of Anthropology at the University of Toronto.

Academic Writing
STEVEN C. ROE AND PAMELA H. DEN OUDEN

The challenges of teaching and learning academic-level writing may be greater than ever before due to the prevalence of writing practices in social media and the growing internationalization of post-secondary education. The authors of Academic Writing use discipline-based research papers to discuss preliminary steps such as research, note-taking, summarizing, and drafting a proposal. They trace the development of scholarly papers through introductions, core paragraphs, and conclusions, and they close with essential chapters on writing in the sciences, and revision and proofreading. In its third edition, Academic Writing now offers chapter learning objectives, annotated passages that illustrate aspects of academic style, and a glossary. Furthermore, every chapter ends with articles that can be used for stylistic analysis. These rich pedagogical features accompanied by the authors’ clear, step-by-step instructions make this book an ideal guide for all students who want to improve their academic writing skills.

The Tattoo Project
Commemorative Tattoos, Visual Culture, and the Digital Archive
EDITED BY DEBORAH DAVIDSON

Unique in scope and content, this methods-based text draws on the process of creating a digital archive of commemorative tattoos (http://thetattooproject.info) to examine the production and mobilization of knowledge across communities, disciplines, and space. Deborah Davidson’s multidisciplinary collection addresses the cultural history of tattooing and the social meanings and implications of commemorative tattoos—tattoos that hold significant value for their bearer.

A practical resource for those undertaking archival research or collecting and sharing information across disciplines, The Tattoo Project builds connections between academic and non-academic communities and bridges the gap between theory and practice to provide innovative content for those studying the body, visual culture, and commemoration.

Deborah Davidson is an Associate Professor of Sociology at York University.

Negotiation and Conflict Resolution in Criminal Practice
A Handbook
REBECCA JAREMKO BROMWICH AND THOMAS HARRISON

Lawyers, Crown counsels, district attorneys, and paralegals are often tasked with managing negotiation and conflict resolution in the courtroom; however, very little theory or literature surrounding this specialization exists. This handbook effectively closes these gaps and extensively discusses theories of negotiation and conflict resolution in criminal practice. Part one discusses communicating effectively and appropriately with clients, court staff, and opposing counsel by identifying and establishing cultural competence, rapport, and non-verbal cues. Part two identifies alternative processes in negotiation and conflict resolution including victim-offender mediation and retroactive justice, while part three covers career development in areas such as managing challenging clients and developing strategies for dealing with high-stress scenarios.

This groundbreaking resource is well suited to students in a wide variety of courses that specialize in negotiation and conflict resolution, including criminal justice, law, paralegal, police studies, or criminology.

Rebecca Jaremko Bromwich is Manager, Diversity and Inclusion at Gowling WLG, an international law firm, and an Adjunct Professor at Carleton University. She has been an Ontario lawyer since 2003 and has worked as both a Crown Attorney and a criminal defense lawyer. Prior to this, she served as the Program Director for Carleton’s Graduate Diploma in Conflict Resolution. Thomas Harrison studied law at Queen’s University (2001) and was called to the Bar in 2002 after articling with Ontario’s Divisional Court. He worked for the provincial Ministry of the Attorney General and at the Superior Court as policy counsel. Thomas has taught legal ethics at Queen’s University and currently teaches critical thinking and animal law at Durham College.

FEATURES

Police Response to Mental Health in Canada
EDITED BY UZMA WILLIAMS, DANIEL J. JONES, AND JOHN R. REDDON

The overwhelming majority of police calls involve individuals experiencing mental health crises, and yet limited resources exist to prepare first responders for these interactions. Police Response to Mental Health in Canada addresses this gap in the field, providing practical guidance to police studies students on how best to respond to mental health–related calls in both critical and non-critical situations. Aligned with the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, Fifth Edition (DSM-5) criteria, this text provides in-depth explanations of the mental health conditions commonly encountered in policing, including mood, psychotic, personality, substance abuse, and post-traumatic stress disorders. Written in an accessible style, this book includes pedagogical tools such as scenario-based learning, case studies, reflection questions, group activities, and chapter summaries to reinforce the learning objectives outlined at the start of each chapter.

With the increasing demand for law enforcement officials to be better informed and prepared to interact with those experiencing mental health issues, this is a timely resource for students in college and university police studies programs.

Uzma Williams is a Sessional Instructor at MacEwan University in the Police Studies program who teaches mental health and response to abnormal behaviour. Daniel J. Jones is a senior leader in a Canadian police service and holds over 20 years of front-line experience working in homicide, hate crimes, specialized investigations, and Indigenous relations. John R. Reddon is an Adjunct Professor of Psychology at the University of Alberta and has worked at the Alberta Hospital Edmonton since 1983.

FEATURES
• includes learning objectives, case studies, and discussion questions
• provides contributions from leaders in the fields of health services, psychology, criminology, policing, and correctional systems
• discusses Canadian issues that are relevant across the country, including police relations with Indigenous populations and incidents of gang-related violence
Security and Risk Technologies in Criminal Justice
Critical Perspectives
EDITED BY STACEY HANNEM, CARRIE B. SANDERS, CHRISTOPHER J. SCHNEIDER, AARON DOYLE, AND TONY CHRISTENSEN

Security and Risk Technologies in Criminal Justice takes students through the evolution of risk technology devices, processes, and prevention. This seminal text unpacks technology’s influence on our understanding of governance and social order in areas of criminal justice, policing, and security and explores the impact of big data, traditional risk practices, and the increased reliance on technology in criminal justice. With both national and international appeal, this vital resource is ideal for undergraduate and graduate students in criminology, police studies, or sociology.

Ethics and Canadian Law Enforcement
RICHARD PARENT AND CATHERINE PARENT

Ethics and Canadian Law Enforcement offers a comprehensive overview of law enforcement decision-making procedures in Canada and evaluates the ethical conduct expected of law enforcement personnel, such as police officers, sheriffs, correctional officers, and private security. Dr. Richard Parent, a police officer for more than 30 years, draws on his professional experience to examine codes of conduct, internal investigations, misconduct and discipline, and the purpose of the civilian review.

This accessible resource, which features boxed examples, chapter summaries, key terms, self-evaluation questions, and critical thinking exercises, is ideal for college and university students enrolled in police foundation and criminal justice programs, as well as law enforcement training agencies.

Richard Parent is an Associate Professor of Police Studies in the School of Criminology at Simon Fraser University.
Catherine Parent, MEd, is a nurse clinician, researcher, writer, and educator promoting individual and family mental health who also collaborates with Richard Parent in policing projects.

Youth in Conflict with the Law
Fourth Edition
DENISE WHITEHEAD AND MARK D. HUNTER

Dealing with young people who come into conflict with the law is one of the most important parts of being a police officer. Now in its fourth edition, Youth in Conflict with the Law provides up-to-date analysis on how police handle young persons. The fourth edition focuses on new and updated legislation, such as the Canadian Victims Bill of Rights, the Safe Streets and Communities Act, and the Child, Youth, and Family Services Act. The authors include new material on issues of race, the Black Lives Matter movement, mental health, ethnicity, and social media. Encouraging students to consider the problem of youth crime within social contexts, and to recognize the factors that lead youth to enter into conflict with the law, this resource is ideal for college police foundations students across Canada.

Diversity, Justice, and Community
The Canadian Context
EDITED BY BEVERLY-JEAN M. DANIEL

This groundbreaking resource will introduce readers to community justice, a growing field dedicated to mobilizing communities as active partners in crime control. Providing a solid foundation in the relevant theoretical approaches, frameworks, and terminology, contributors highlight the barriers and injustices diverse populations face when interacting with Canada’s criminal justice system. Beverly-Jean Daniel’s edited anthology investigates the specific experiences of differently located groups, including Indigenous women and girls, LGBTQ people, Somali youth, and others, working toward possible solutions to issues of justice and equity at both the community and institutional levels.

Beverly-Jean M. Daniel is a Professor in the Community and Justice Services Program at Humber College in Toronto. For over 20 years, her academic work has investigated and conceptualized race, racism, and equity. In 2012, Dr. Daniel founded and developed The Bridge, a groundbreaking student engagement and retention program at Humber College.

Trauma-Informed Youth Justice in Canada
A New Framework toward a Kinder Future
JUDAH OUDSHOORN

Most youth who come in conflict with the law have experienced some form of trauma, yet many justice professionals are ill-equipped to deal with the effects trauma has on youth and instead reinforce a system that further traumatizes young offenders while ignoring the needs of victims. By taking a trauma-informed perspective, this text provides a much-needed alternative—one that allows for interventions based on principles of healing and restorative justice, rather than on punishment and risk assessment. The author tackles problems facing youth justice today, especially the ongoing cycles of intergenerational trauma caused by the colonization of Indigenous peoples and patriarchal violence, and demonstrates how a trauma-informed approach to youth justice can work toward preventing crime and healing offenders, victims, and communities. This engaging text is the perfect resource for college and university students in the field of youth justice.

Trauma-Informed Juvenile Justice in the United States
JUDAH OUDSHOORN

Judah Oudshoorn addresses the context of youth offending by examining both individual trauma—including its emotional, cognitive, and behavioural effects—and collective trauma. The volume tackles some of the most challenging problems facing juvenile justice in the United States today, especially the ongoing cycles of intergenerational trauma caused by patriarchal violence and the over-incarceration of African American, Latino, and Native American youth. Featuring a foreword written by Howard Zehr, case stories from the author’s own work with victims and offenders, questions for reflection, glossaries of key terms, and lists of recommended readings, this engaging text is the ideal resource for students in the field of juvenile justice.

Canadian Organized Crime
STEVEN SCHNEIDER

An introductory examination of the major crime groups in Canada, this text presents contemporary case studies and criminal justice policies to assess which enforcement strategies are best suited to control organized crime. By implementing historical, descriptive, conceptual, and theoretical perspectives throughout, Stephen Schneider provides readers with a broad understanding of the social, political, and economic forces that lead to the continued existence of organized criminal activities.

Canadian Organized Crime covers topics in racketeering, drug trafficking, violence and intimidation, money laundering, and intelligence. This widely informative text will appeal to students in criminology, sociology, political science, law, and justice programs, as well as to criminal justice professionals and readers interested in organized crime literature.

Challenging Notions
Critical Victimology in Canada, Second Edition
TAMMY C. LANDAU

This expanded and updated second edition introduces students to both the theoretical and applied aspects of victimology and provides a critical foundation for evaluation. Tammy Landau, an expert in criminal justice, explores patterns of victimization in Canada, the experiences of Aboriginal people in the criminal justice system, restorative approaches to victimization, and the challenges presented when the state is the perpetrator of crime. This edition reflects new trends and developments in policy, has been updated to include data from the 2009 General Social Survey, and incorporates a new analysis of the various forms of family violence. Featuring well-chosen examples and thoughtful chapter discussion questions, this uniquely Canadian text is a valuable resource for second- and third-year victimology classrooms.

Untold Stories
A Canadian Disability History Reader
EDITED BY NANCY HANSEN, ROY HANES, AND DIANE DRIEDGER

This collection focuses on Canadians with mental, physical, and cognitive disabilities, and discusses the ways in which they lived, worked, and influenced public policy in Canada.

Organized by time period, the 23 chapters in this collection are authored by a diverse group of scholars who discuss the untold histories of Canadians with disabilities—Canadians who influenced science and technology, law, education, health care, and social justice. Selected chapters discuss disabilities among Indigenous women, the importance of community inclusion, the ubiquity of stairs in the Montreal Métro, and the ethics of disability research.

Untold Stories: A Canadian Disability History Reader offers an exceptional presentation of influential people with various disabilities who brought about social change and helped to make Canada more accessible. This invaluable collection is a must for students in disability studies, sociology, history, social work, and educations studies.

Stories for Every Classroom
Canadian Fiction Portraying Characters with Disabilities
BEVERLEY A. BRENNNA

Stories for Every Classroom explores the historical patterns and trends, theoretical frameworks, and critical literacy methods used to understand and teach children’s literature and its portrayal of characters with disabilities. Beverley A. Brenna considers the historical patterns and trends, theoretical frameworks, and critical literacy methods used to understand and teach children’s literature, followed by an authoritative examination of contemporary books written for the K–12 grade levels. Featuring author portraits, comprehensive annotated bibliographies of contemporary Canadian children’s books that depict characters with disabilities, and read-on bibliographies that provide connections with other books in the field, this unique text will be an invaluable resource for educators.

Beverley A. Brenna is a Professor of Curriculum Studies at the College of Education at the University of Saskatchewan. She has taught in elementary classrooms and worked as a special education teacher and consultant. She has authored over a dozen books for young people, including The White Bicycle, which in 2013 won the Printz Honor Book Award and was shortlisted for a Governor General’s Award.

Rethinking Normalcy
A Disability Studies Reader
EDITED BY TANYA TITCHKOSKY AND ROD MICHALKO

Rethinking Normalcy introduces the rapidly growing field of disability studies to undergraduate audiences. Strongly interdisciplinary, this volume draws upon many different social and cultural approaches to address disability as a social and political construction. Diverse chapters unite theoretical perspectives and personal accounts to critically analyze notions of disability as a personal tragedy, an abnormality, or an individual matter. Topics addressed in this reader include a review of the discipline, the normalization of suffering, institutionalization, law and policy, education and work, and issues of race, class, gender, sexuality, and nationality.

Tanya Titchkosky teaches Disability Studies in the Department of Social Justice Education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, as well as in the Department of Sociology at the University of Toronto. Rod Michalko is teaching Disability Studies in the Equity Studies Program of New College, University of Toronto. He is an adjunct faculty member in the Department of Sociology and Equity Studies, OISE, and also participates in the Critical Disability Studies Program at York University. Titchkosky and Michalko have jointly authored five books and numerous articles in disability studies.

Dissonant Disabilities
Women with Chronic Illnesses Explore Their Lives
EDITED BY DIANE DRIEDGER AND MICHELLE OWEN

An attempt to stimulate discussion and debate, Dissonant Disabilities emphasizes that analyses of disability must take gender into account. This much-needed collection of original articles invites the reader to examine the key issues in the lives of women with chronic illnesses.

Distinct from books on this topic that adopt a medical or self-help perspective, this collection invites the reader to examine key issues in the lives of women with chronic illnesses, including shame, blame, and power imbalances in family, work, and education. The authors explore how society reacts to women with chronic illnesses and how these women cope with the uncertainty of their bodies in a society that desires certainty. This text continues to be popular for courses in disability studies, women’s studies, and sociology of health and gender.

Equity as Praxis in Early Childhood Education and Care
EDITED BY ZUHRA ABAWI, ARDAVAN EIZADIRAD, AND RACHEL BERMAN

Equity as Praxis in Early Childhood Education and Care aims to map, deconstruct, and engage with different models of equity as they pertain to the early childhood education landscape in Ontario. Drawing on marginalized narratives of gender, race, Indigeneity, dis/ability and inclusion, and migration, immigration, and displacement, the authors discuss how to advance the field and make it more equitable for children, families, early childhood educators, and all other practitioners. This edited collection outlines the current political climate of early childhood education and care in Ontario through a critical analysis of policies and dominant discourses of equity and inclusion. By prompting readers to reflect on and critique their understandings of children, families, communities, and practices in the field, the authors seek to provide counter-narratives to Eurocentric developmentalist hegemonies and an alternative strength-based approach to critical and transformative praxis.

This vital text encourages rethinking how narratives of equity and inclusion are constructed and what this means for young children and their families in Ontario, as well as throughout Canada. This is an essential resource for students in early childhood education and care, early childhood studies, and education programs.

Teaching Global Citizenship
A Canadian Perspective
EDITED BY LLOYD KORNELSEN, GERALDINE BALZER, AND KAREN M. MAGRO

Teaching Global Citizenship brings together perspectives from former and current teachers from across Canada to tackle the unique challenges surrounding educating for global awareness. The contributors discuss strategies for encouraging young people to cultivate a sense of agency and global responsibility. Reflecting on the educator’s experience, each chapter engages with critical questions surrounding teaching global citizenship, such as how to help students understand and navigate the tension at the heart of global citizenship between universalism and pluralism, and how to do so without frightening, regressing, mythicizing, imposing, or colonizing. Based on narrative inquiry, the contributors convey their insights through stories from their classroom experiences, which take place in diverse educational settings across Canada, in both rural and urban areas, and in public and private schools.

Covering a broad range of topics surrounding the complexity of educating for global citizenship, this timely text will benefit those in education, global citizenship, curriculum development, and social studies courses across Canada.

Lloyd Kornelsen is an Associate Professor of Education and the Director of the Human Rights Program at the University of Winnipeg. He was a secondary school teacher for 25 years and was presented the Manitoba Education Research Network award in 2013. Autism Spectrum Disorder in the Canadian Context
An Introduction
KIMBERLY MAICH, SHARON C. PENNEY, KELLY ALVES, AND CARMEN HALL

With a unique focus on Canada-wide practices and research, this text offers a comprehensive introduction to autism spectrum disorder (ASD). Covering the clinical, educational, and community perspectives of ASD, the authors highlight how educators, direct support professionals, and communities at large can support people with ASD across their lifespan: from early years, to school years, to adulthood. The resource is divided into four thematic sections. Section one gives an overview of ASD, including prominent researchers in the field and changes in its diagnostic criteria. Section two looks at evidence-based interventions and the newer sensory theories and frameworks. The third section examines ASD across the lifespan, as well as the experiences of parents and families. The final section looks at additional critical issues, including media, sexuality, peer relationships, and immigration.

Beyond being a vital asset for ASD programs and resource centres across the country, Autism Spectrum Disorder in the Canadian Context has broad applications suitable for courses on ASD in behavioural science, education, and health studies programs.

Kimberly Maich is a Professor in the Faculty of Education at Memorial University. Sharon C. Penney is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at Memorial University. Kelly Alves is a Professor in the Behavioural Science Diploma Program at Seneca College. Carmen Hall is a Professor and Coordinator of the Autism and Behavioural Science Graduate Certificate at Fanshawe College.

FEATURES
• each chapter features figures, definitions, examples, and questions designed to deepen understanding and elicit reflection
• includes feature boxes with interesting perspectives provided by varied members of Canada’s ASD community
• unlike other textbooks on ASD, this text focuses on ASD across the lifespan, covering infancy, early childhood and school years, as well as adulthood, in the Canadian context
Teaching about Gender Diversity
Teacher-Tested Lesson Plans for K–12 Classrooms
EDITED BY SUSAN W. WOOLLEY AND LEE AIRTON

Teaching about Gender Diversity is an edited collection of teacher-tested interdisciplinary lesson plans that provides K–12 teachers with the tools to implement gender-inclusive practices in their curriculum and talk to their students about gender and sex. Divided into three sections dedicated to the elementary, middle, and secondary grade levels, this practical resource provides lessons for a variety of subject areas, including English language arts, STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics), and health and physical education. The lessons range from reading aloud early literacy picture books that use gender-neutral language and highlight the gendered experiences of characters to engaging mathematics in the study of targeting gender terminology, stereotypes, and the social construction of binary gender.

Written by teachers for teachers, this engaging collection highlights teachers’ specialized knowledge of pedagogical practices for the diverse contemporary classroom. More than 30 contributors from across North America provide their varied perspectives on the timely issue of teaching about gender in the classroom. Teaching about Gender Diversity is an ideal resource for students taking education courses on gender, sexuality, diversity and equity, curriculum design, and professional practice.

Susan W. Woolley is an Associate Professor of Educational Studies and Director of the LGBTQ Studies Program at Colgate University, New York. Lee Airton is an Assistant Professor of Gender and Sexuality Studies in Education at Queen’s University, Ontario.

FEATURES
• includes detailed lesson plans that include next steps and extension ideas
• utilizes a practice-based, guided approach
• a practical resource for pre-service and in-service teachers

Praise for this title:
“An invaluable resource for exploring and affirming gender-expansiveness alongside youth. All educators should invest in this book.”

Decolonizing and Indigenizing Education in Canada

EDITED BY SHEILA COTE-MEEK AND TAIMA MOEKE-PICKERING

This expansive collection explores the complexities of decolonization and indigenization of post-secondary institutions. Seeking to advance critical scholarship on issues including the place of Indigenous epistemologies, knowledges, curriculum, and pedagogy, Decolonizing and Indigenizing Education in Canada aims to build space in the academy for Indigenous peoples and resistance and reconciliation. This 15-chapter collection is built around the two connecting themes of Indigenous epistemologies and decolonizing post-secondary institutions. Aiming to advance and transform the Canadian academy, the authors of this volume discuss strategies for shifting power dynamics and Eurocentric perspectives within higher education. Written by academics from across Canada, the text reflects the critical importance of the discourse on truth and reconciliation in educational contexts and how these discourses are viewed in institutions across the country. This groundbreaking resource is essential to students and scholars focusing on Indigenous knowledges, education and pedagogies, and curriculum studies.

Dr. Sheila Cote-Meek is Anishinaabe from the Teme-Augama Anishnabai, and is the Vice-President, Equity, People and Culture at York University. She is the former Associate Vice-President, Academic and Indigenous Programs at Laurentian University. Dr. Taima Moeke-Pickering is a Maori of the Ngati Pukeko and Tuhoe tribes. She is a full professor in the School of Indigenous Relations at Laurentian University, where she teaches courses on Indigenous research methodologies, international Indigenous issues, and United Nations and Indigenous social work.

Leadership in Education
The Power of Generative Dialogue
PAMELA ADAMS, CARMEN MOMBOURQUETTE, AND DAVID TOWNSEND

The authors of Leadership in Education suggest that sustained and purposeful growth starts with provocation: an emotional incitement that causes reflection, a shift in thinking, and a variation in the course of action.

This resource shows educators how to adopt a “leader-as-provocateur” mindset by demonstrating highly effective ways of questioning that affirm mutual respect, build trust, stimulate reflection, strengthen partnerships, and use inquiry to guide action. A quick and compelling read, this textbook is the ideal resource for graduate students in education and leadership programs across North America, the United Kingdom, and Australia.

Pamela Adams is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Lethbridge. Carmen Mombourquette is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Lethbridge. David Townsend is a retired Associate Professor, formerly of the Faculty of Education at the University of Lethbridge.

Teaching English
A Practical Guide for Language Teachers
GRAEME CHING

Designed as an all-in-one guide, this practical, easy-to-use text is essential to all courses offering instruction to students who are training to become language teachers in Canada and abroad. Awarded the 2017 TESL Canada Innovation Award for Teacher Professional Development Resource, this wonderfully concise textbook covers key topics including course design, lesson planning, and classroom management. This edition has been well updated and includes a new section on using technology in the classroom, expanded coverage of assessment, and new questions and suggested further readings in each chapter. It also identifies how to teach speaking, listening, reading, and writing, with special attention to language acquisition and intercultural communication. This essential resource is ideal for courses in teaching English as a second or foreign language and for certificates in TESL, TEFL, TESFL, or TESOL.

The Role of an Education Assistant
Supporting Inclusion
EDITED BY MARY HARBER AND ASHA RAO

The Role of an Education Assistant offers a handbook for students learning about the growing and complex role of education assistants. This includes how to support academic, social, inclusive, and independent learning environments in schools and collaborate with parents and teachers in the planning and evaluation of student progress. Divided into four sections, this text addresses education assistant professional standards, mental health and wellness, culture and diversity, and the challenge of supporting all students in the classroom. Professionals and scholars contribute research, anecdotes, practical insights from the field, and discussion questions to encourage student reflection and professional preparation. Offering practical guidance for inter-professional collaboration and inclusive education, this valuable text will prepare students in education studies, education assistant and educational support, and early childhood education programs for rewarding careers in the industry.

Mary Harber has been a social worker and educator for the past 30 years. She teaches at Camosun College in Victoria.
Asha Rao is program lead and faculty in the Education Assistant and Community Support Program and faculty in the Community, Family, and Child Studies Department at Camosun College.

Canada is more diverse than ever before, and the application of transcultural literacies in Canadian classrooms is needed for the successful growth of students and teachers alike. In this edited volume, world-renowned educators offer unique perspectives on the impact of race, culture, and identity in the classroom. With an interdisciplinary approach, this book investigates not only how teachers can design learning spaces to accommodate diverse students, but also how they can build literacy programs to complement and further develop the varied strengths, skills, and experiences of those students. Examining the roles of both teachers and students in transcultural language learning, this text will benefit students in teacher education programs and in graduate-level education studies that focus on language and literacy, diversity, and global citizenship.

Centering African Proverbs, Indigenous Folktales, and Cultural Stories in Curriculum
Units and Lesson Plans for Inclusive Education
EDITED BY GEORGE J. SEFA DEI AND MAIRI MCDERMOTT

In Centering African Proverbs, Indigenous Folktales, and Cultural Stories in Curriculum, skilled experts George J. Sefa Dei and Mairi McDermott seek to improve educational practices in pluralistic contexts by substantively engaging African proverbs, Indigenous folktales, and cultural stories in curricular and pedagogical decisions. Each contributor works with a different proverb, folktale, or cultural story as a core text for a unique unit of their design. Along with detailed notes for the instructor, each contributor writes a reflection on the process of designing the unit with anti-racism theory as a guiding principle. This innovative volume will serve as a wonderful companion to courses within bachelor of education, master of education, and master of teaching programs across Canada and the United States.

George J. Sefa Dei is a Professor in the Department of Humanities, Social Sciences, and Social Justice Education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, University of Toronto.
Mairi McDermott is an Assistant Professor in Curriculum and Learning at the Werklund School of Education, University of Calgary.

Educators on Diversity, Social Justice, and Schooling
A Reader
EDITED BY SONYA E. SINGER AND MARY JANE HARKINS

Educators on Diversity, Social Justice, and Schooling identifies categories of privilege and marginalization in the “master narrative” of social discourse and works to bring equity into classrooms across Canada. This timely text challenges students to question the power relations that value one group’s system of knowledge over another and brings this to bear on the classroom environment. This volume features contributions by educators from diverse disciplinary backgrounds and includes chapter-end key questions, additional resources for more information, and suggested activities to engage students in critical thought and to ground concepts of diversity and social justice in practical application. Students in undergraduate and graduate education studies, curriculum studies, and foundational studies programs will value the combination of theoretical and practical knowledge that this collection puts forth to foster a new generation of inclusive educators.

Sonya E. Singer is an Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Education at Mount Saint Vincent University. Mary Jane Harkins is a Professor at Mount Saint Vincent University, where she is the (Co-Acting) Dean of Education, and the Coordinator of the Doctoral Program in Education Studies.

Le Français, ça me plaît
PAULETTE COLLET ET ROSANNA FURGIUELE

Concise, pratique et entièrement mise à jour, cette nouvelle édition de Le Français, ça me plaît propose une revue immersive de la grammaire française, améliore la compréhension de la lecture et développe un vocabulaire vaste et éclectique grâce à une nouvelle variété de lectures choisies dans différentes régions et époques du monde francophone.

De nouvelles lectures originales du duo d’auteurs, ainsi que des articles traitant de questions d’actualité et des extraits de sources littéraires, sont organisés par thèmes et présentent des points de vue, des genres et des styles variés. Les textes abordent des sujets universels et intemporels : les choix de carrière, le progrès technologique, la science-fiction, le droit, le théâtre, l’humour. La grammaire est démontrée de manière claire et concise à l’aide d’exemples tirés des lectures.

Pédagogiquement riche, avec des listes d’expressions familières et leurs équivalents anglais, des tableaux de conjugaison des verbes, des suggestions d’activités interactives, des exercices audio et phonétiques, ce manuel complet est la ressource idéale pour les cours de français de niveau intermédiaire.

Paulette Collet est professeure émérite de l’Université de Toronto et continue à enseigner le français. Elle a écrit des manuels et des ouvrages de critique littéraire. Rosanna Furgiuele est professeure au Collège universitaire Glendon, Université York et est l’auteure de plusieurs manuels de langue française.

CARACTÉRISTIQUES
• une sélection révisée de lectures comportant des extraits et des adaptations d’œuvres de grands écrivains français tels que Molière, Victor Hugo, Marcel Proust et Albert Camus
• des exercices mis à jour dans chaque chapitre pour tester la maîtrise de la grammaire, la compréhension de la lecture et l’acquisition de vocabulaire, ainsi que de nouvelles activités interactives
• de nouvelles listes de vocabulaire à la fin de chaque lecture pour aider les apprenants à comprendre et à maîtriser de nouvelles expressions sans avoir besoin de recourir à un dictionnaire
La France
histoire, société, culture
EDWARD OUSSELIN

Premier ouvrage du genre, La France : histoire, société, culture s'efforce d'encourager les étudiants à adopter une perspective comparative et transculturelle qui leur permettra de réfléchir à leurs propres cultures tout en découvrant l'histoire, la société et la culture de la France.

Edward Ousselin guide les étudiants à travers des sujets tels que les systèmes gouvernementaux, administratifs et juridiques de la Ve République; le rôle de l’Union européenne; le système éducatif français; la diversité religieuse et ethnique en France; la femme, le(s) féminisme(s) et les minorités sexuelles; le système de sécurité sociale; la culture littéraire et l’argot; et l’évolution des valeurs socioculturelles.

Soulignant les similitudes et les différences socioculturelles entre la France, le Canada et les États-Unis, l’ouvrage présente des passages et des extraits informatifs tirés de textes authentiques dotés d’une réelle pertinence historique et culturelle, ainsi que des informations contextuelles sur des lieux, des événements et des personnages importants, intégrés tout au long des chapitres. Conçu pour les étudiants en fin de 1er cycle ou aux cycles supérieurs au Canada et aux États-Unis, ce texte sera une ressource essentielle pour les cours sur la société et la culture françaises.

Edward Ousselin est professeur de français à la Western Washington University et rédacteur en chef de The French Review.

Éloge pour cette titre :
« The author exhibits an impressive breadth of knowledge on France … La France : histoire, société, culture represents a major contribution and is without a doubt one of the best textbooks currently available on contemporary French society and culture. »

La composition par le texte
SADIA ZOUBIR-SHAW

Unique dans son approche de l'étude de la langue française, Lire et écrire : La composition par le texte explore diverses techniques et stratégies d'écriture dans le but de développer et de renforcer les compétences de compréhension et d'écriture en français. Comblant le fossé entre le processus et la pratique, ce texte complet utilise une analyse structurelle et textuelle approfondie pour sonder les relations entre le contenu, la langue, le style et la structure. Chaque chapitre commence par l'exploration de modèles littéraires français et francophones afin de stimuler la réflexion critique et est suivi d'exercices d'apprentissage tels que des exercices syntaxiques et sémantiques, des activités d'écriture qui permettent de pratiquer la composition et l'édition, l'étude des expressions idiomatiques et des méthodes d'identification des faux amis. Lire et écrire est une ressource inestimable pour les cours de français de deuxième cycle dans les universités du Canada et des États-Unis.

Sadia Zoubir-Shaw est professeure agrégée de linguistique à l'Université du Kentucky.

La traduction
Un pont de départ
KERRY LAPPIN-FORTIN

La traduction : un pont de départ propose une introduction attrayante et vivante à la traduction anglais-français et français-anglais. Organisé en cinq parties, l'ouvrage présente un aperçu théorique du processus de traduction, explore en profondeur la méthodologie au moyen d'exercices instructifs englobant différents scénarios de traduction et décompose les différences structurelles utiles entre l'anglais et le français.

Ce manuel accessible, qui combine les meilleures parties d'un manuel scolaire et d'un cahier d'exercices, regorge de nombreux extraits, d'exemples pratiques et d'exercices de traduction instructifs. Il convient parfaitement aux étudiants universitaires qui étudient la langue française à un niveau avancé, ainsi qu'à ceux qui suivent des cours de traduction ou de stylistique comparée.

Kerry Lappin-Fortin est professeure de français à l'université St. Jerome’s, à Waterloo (Ontario). En 2009, elle a reçu deux prix pour son enseignement.

Stylistique différentielle, textologie et traduction
devièmme édition
EGAN VALENTINE ET MARIE-CHRISTINE AUBIN

Stylistique différentielle, textologie et traduction propose une étude comparée systématisée des caractéristiques stylistiques et culturelles de l'anglais et du français, étude qui se situe généralement à l'étape initiale de la formation en traduction. Partant d'une perspective textuelle, cette nouvelle édition comporte l'étude de divers types de textes, des présentations théoriques enrichies ainsi que de nombreux exercices bidirectionnels. À la fin de chaque chapitre se trouve une bibliographie se rapportant aux notions étudiées.

Egan Valentine est professeur et directeur au département de langues modernes et de traduction à l'Université du Québec à Trois-Rivières. Marie-Christine Aubin est traductrice agrégée et professeure de traduction au Collège Glendon de l'Université York à Toronto.

Structure du français moderne
Introduction à l’analyse linguistique, quatrième édition
PIERRE LÉON ET PARTH BHATT

Le but de cet ouvrage est d’initier à l’analyse linguistique en dégageant la structure du français moderne. Cela, de la manière la plus claire possible, sans jargon inutile. Notre analyse est ouverte à tous les courants et non enfermé dans une école contraignante. L’étude de la langue nous mène à des implications stylistiques, esthétiques et sociales, d’où des incursions dans les variations individuelles, dialectales et idéologiques. Les variations du français de France, comme celles du Canada, occupent ici une large place.

Des exercices à la fin de chaque chapitre offrent le moyen d’appliquer les connaissances acquises. Du bon temps en perspective pour les curieux et les amoureux de la langue!

Invitation à écrire, Volume 1 et 2
deuxième édition
Catherine Black et Louise Chaput

Invitation à écrire est un outil d’apprentissage qui tient compte des recherches effectuées dans le domaine de l’écriture chez les apprenants en FLE (Français Langue Étrangère). Pour cela, il met l’accent sur le travail en groupe, la révision et l’apprentissage en étapes qui permettent de démystifier l’écrit dans une langue étrangère. Les annexes ajoutés décrivent les concepts de base et reprennent les points importants des divers chapitres.

La deuxième édition d’Invitation à écrire comprend deux manuels, qui ont été conçus pour les niveaux intermédiaire et avancé. Le premier volume est plutôt destiné aux étudiants de niveau B1–B2, alors que le deuxième volume vise plutôt les étudiants de niveau C1–C2 du CECR (Cadre européen commun de référence).

Catherine Black est professeure agrégée au département de Français de l’Université Simon Fraser. Linguiste et didacticienne de formation, elle se spécialise en pédagogie du FLE. Louise Chaput, titulaire d’un doctorat en linguistique française de l’Université Western Ontario, fait présentement un stage postdoctoral au département d’Information et de Communication de l’Université Laval.

Éloge pour cette titre :
« Invitation à écrire présente les étapes du processus de l’écriture du français langue seconde d’une manière cohérente et claire, en mettant l’accent sur le travail en groupe, la révision, et l’observation détaillée de textes authentiques variés et captivants. »

—Betty-Joan Traverse, Associate Professor of French, Fraser Valley University
Découverte et Communication
Français oral pour les niveaux intermédiaire et avancé, deuxième édition
CATHERINE BLACK ET LOUISE CHAPUT

L'objectif principal de Découverte et Communication est non seulement d'approfondir les connaissances du lexique français, mais bien de donner aux apprenants le goût d'aller plus loin dans leur exploration de la langue orale. Découverte et Communication s'adresse à un public désireux d'approfondir ses connaissances du vocabulaire français ainsi que de développer les compétences orales aux niveaux intermédiaire et avancé. Il peut être utilisé seul dans un cours axé sur l'expression orale ou conjointement avec un livre de grammaire. Cette deuxième édition a été largement modifiée et mise au goût du jour.

Catherine Black est professeure agrégée au département de Français de l'Université Simon Fraser. Linguiste et didacticienne de formation, elle se spécialise en pédagogie du FLE. Louise Chaput, titulaire d'un doctorat en linguistique française de l'Université Western Ontario, fait présentement un stage postdoctoral au département d'Information et de Communication de l'Université Laval.

Apprendre à traduire
Cahier d'exercices pour l'apprentissage de la traduction français-anglais anglais-français, troisième édition
VALENTINE WATSON RODGER

Apprendre à traduire répondra beaucoup mieux aux besoins actuels des étudiants et à ceux de leurs professeurs. Le lexique du manuel sera utile à l'étudiant, pas seulement dans la dissertation et dans d'autres cours, mais aussi dans la conversation courante.

On a remplacé ou modifié toutes les phrases à traduire qui étaient démodées ; on a également apporté aux introductions explicatives de certains exercices des modifications destinées à les rendre plus complètes, claires et efficaces.

Après avoir fait ses études à Oxford, Valentine Watson Rodger a été professeur de traduction et de langue et littérature françaises à l'université de Western Ontario et au College Huron de 1965 à 2004.

Trans Youth Stories
An Intergenerational Dialogue from after the “Trans Tipping Point”
EDITED BY DR. LINDSAY HERRIOT AND KATE FRY

The first of its kind, Trans Youth Stories is a thematically organized collection of narratives, fiction, nonfiction, letters, poetry, graphics/comics, and visual pieces created by twenty-six Canadian transgender youth between the ages of ten to eighteen. Arranged in sections on childhood, families, bodies, everyday life, schooling, mental health, and acceptance, each section concludes with a response written by a Canadian scholar in transgender studies in conversation with the youth. These responses contextualize the youth pieces with recent scholarship from the field and equip readers with concrete actions for research, activism, and professional practice.

Offering a unique and truthful depiction of young trans life and a holistic view of what it might be like to be a young trans person today, this groundbreaking volume will serve as an essential sourcebook for both students and teachers of gender and sexuality studies, trans studies, child and youth studies, counselling, and education.

Dr. Lindsay Herriot is an Adjunct Professor and Sessional Instructor in the Faculty of Education and in the School of Child and Youth Care, an Associate Fellow at the Centre for the Study of Religion and Society, and a member of the Steering Committee in Transgender Studies at the University of Victoria. She is also a full-time special education teacher in the Greater Victoria School District. Kate Fry is a writer and editor who recently completed a BA with Honours in English Literature from the University of Victoria.

FEATURES
- a unique collection centering the voices of trans youth through firsthand perspectives followed by an extended scholarly response
- includes additional resources and follow-up responses by scholars to help readers contextualize writings of trans youth

Praise for this title:
“Insightfully conceived, this work foregrounds the thoughts and experiences of trans, gender non-conforming, and gender non-binary youth. These stories, and the interpretation and contextualization given by the adult mentors and subject experts, need to be read by all those that care about our youth and their contemporary challenges and celebrations.”

—LOREN CANNON, PHD, DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY AND DEPARTMENT OF CRITICAL RACE, GENDER AND SEXUALITY STUDIES, HUMBOLDT STATE UNIVERSITY

CONTRIBUTORS: Lee Airton, Serena Lukas Bhandar, Lindsay Cavanaugh, J. Matsu De Roo, H. Kori Doty, Glynne Evans, Kate Fry, Lindsay Herriot, Astri Jack, Alyx MacAdams, Tash McAdam, Jake Pyne, Kyle Shaughnessy, Christopher Wolff, and twenty-six trans youth
TransNarratives
Scholarly and Creative Works on Transgender Experience
EDITED BY KRISTI CARTER AND JAMES BRUNTON

Filling a gap in literature and fulfilling the need for trans-focused work, TransNarratives is an interdisciplinary collection featuring narratives of transgender experiences, providing a sourcebook of a range of trans perspectives, writing styles, and trans methodological fields of applicability. The works included transcend disciplinary boundaries in the pursuit of academic knowledge and creativity, actively deconstructing binaries wherever they begin to appear, whether with regard to gender, race, ability, or sexuality, or to the binary divisions that can sometimes separate academic and creative production.

Calling attention to transgender writers, this unique and timely text showcases a wide variety of material, including scholarship from multi- and interdisciplinary transgender perspectives, poetry and fiction that foregrounds trans experience, and first-person transgender narratives. The essays, poems, and stories cover a range of topics relevant to transgender, gender non-conforming, and non-binary experiences, across time, geographic location, and cultures. An important addition to the field, this groundbreaking text will serve as an essential collection of works for students and researchers in transgender studies, queer studies, and gender studies.

Kristi Carter (she/her/hers) is the author of poetry collections Aria Viscera, Daughter Shaman Sings Blood Anthem, Red and Vast, and Cosmovore. She holds a PhD in English-Creative Writing, Poetry with a specialization in Women’s and Gender Studies from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and an MFA in Poetry from Oklahoma State University. James Brunton (he/him/his) is a poet and scholar of critical theory and film studies. He is the author of the poetry collection Opera on TV and the co-author of The Future Is a Faint Song. James holds an MA in Visual Studies from the University of California-Irvine and a PhD in English from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, where he teaches film studies and critical theory.

Praise for this title:
“This anthology actively dismantles the binary between creative and academic knowledge production using multidisciplinary perspectives and first-person narratives representing a range of trans voices. TransNarratives is a new and necessary sourcebook for teaching and learning in the field of transgender studies.”

—IAN KHARA ELLASANTE, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF GENDER AND SEXUALITY STUDIES, BATES COLLEGE

FEATURES
• provides accessible, thematically wide-ranging, and stylistically diverse writings, including scholarship from multi- and interdisciplinary transgender perspectives
• includes multi-generational perspectives and non-able-bodied subjectivities
• uniquely formatted to support a dialogue between creative and scholarly work

Soon to be in its second edition, Queerly Canadian is a remarkable and comprehensive anthology. Featuring many of Canada’s leading sexuality studies scholars, this collection examines the fundamental role that sexuality has played—and continues to play—in the building of our nation, and in our national narratives, myths, and anxieties about Canadian identity.

Covering both historical and contemporary perspectives on nation and community, law and criminal justice, organizing and activism, health and medicine, education, marriage and family, sport, and popular culture and representation, the essays also take a strong intersectional approach, integrating analyses of race, class, and gender. This interdisciplinary collection is essential for the Canadian sexuality studies classroom, and for anyone interested in the mythologies and realities of queer life in Canada.

Maureen FitzGerald is the former Director of the Sexual Diversity Studies Undergraduate Program at the University of Toronto. A former editor at Women’s Press, she has also taught for 30 years in the Transitional Year Program at the University of Toronto. Scott Rayter is an Associate Professor, Teaching Stream, in both the Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies and the Department of English at the University of Toronto.

NEW AND UPDATED IN THE SECOND EDITION

- sixty percent new and expanded content, with twenty-seven new chapters on topics including Indigenous kinship, Blackness, masculinity, disability, queer resistance, and sex education
- thoroughly updated to reflect a strong emphasis on the diversity of queer experiences and identities in Canada
- each chapter includes a brief introduction, written by the author, that provides helpful context about their work for both students and teachers

Praise for the first edition:

“FitzGerald and Rayter have brought together the very best of queer and trans sexuality studies. A must-read for scholars and students of sexuality studies globally.”

—ELSPETH H. BROWN, UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Women and Popular Culture in Canada
EDITED BY LAINE ZISMAN NEWMAN

The first book of its kind, this volume explores women and non-binary people in popular culture in Canada, with a focus on intersectional analysis of settler colonialism, race, white privilege, ability, and queer representations and experiences in diverse media. The chapters include discussions of film, television, video games, music, and performance, as well as political events, journalism, social media, fandom, and activism. Throughout this collection, readers are encouraged to think carefully about the role women play in the cultural landscape in Canada as active viewers, creators, and participants.

Covering a wide range of topics from historical perspectives to recent events, media, and technologies, this collection acts as an introduction, an archive, and a continuing commitment to lifting the voices and stories of women in popular culture in Canada. This book is a must-read for gender studies and media studies courses that focus on popular culture, Canadian feminism, and Canadian media.

Laine Zisman Newman is a post-doctoral research fellow in the Department of Geography and Tourism Studies at Brock University. Zisman Newman is the co-editor of the forthcoming second edition of Queerly Canadian (2021) with Women’s Press.

FEATURES
• includes questions for critical thought that stimulate discussion
• focuses on intersections of race, gender, ability, and sexuality
• provides contemporary Canadian content from an interdisciplinary and intersectional lens

Praise for this title:
“Offers a sweeping intersectional feminist analysis of popular culture in Canada, addressing the role that women-identified artists, creators, and producers play across a variety of media... Together, the chapters rethink the power dynamics, ideologies, and discourses at work in shaping gender, identity, subjecthood, and meaning-making within a settler colonial national context.”

—DR. CARRIE SMITH, MODERN LANGUAGES AND CULTURAL STUDIES, UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA
The Black Girlhood Studies Collection
EDITED BY ARIA S. HALLIDAY

This groundbreaking text is one of the first collections to exclusively explore, develop, and evaluate theories of Black girls and Black girlhoods. This contributed volume brings together emerging and established scholars from North America to discuss what Black girlhood means historically and in the 21st century, and how concepts of race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, religion, and nationality inform or affect identities of Black girls beyond school or urban settings.

Divided into two sections, special topics covered include Black feminism, intersectionality, pleasure and erotic agency, media and fan activism, construction of self, leadership, social change, toxic masculinity, and self-care.

The Black Girlhood Studies Collection is a vital resource that will evoke meaningful discussion and change for students in African studies, Black studies, child and youth studies, gender and women’s studies, media studies, and sociology courses globally.

Aria S. Halliday is an Assistant Professor of Africana Feminisms in Women’s Studies at the University of New Hampshire. Her research spans the fields of American studies; African American studies; women’s, gender, and sexuality studies; and cultural studies.

FEATURES
• contributions from emerging and established scholars from a breadth of diverse disciplines and backgrounds
• includes pedagogical features such as chapter overviews, discussion questions, and glossaries

Praise for this title:
“This groundbreaking collection brings together some of the most brilliant emerging and leading scholars in Black Girlhood Studies. Offering both intellectually rigorous and deeply affective insights, this collection shows us why we need Black Girlhood Studies and how to do it well.”

—DR. TREVA LINDSEY, DEPARTMENT OF WOMEN’S, GENDER, AND SEXUALITY STUDIES, THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
Gender and Women’s Studies

Critical Terrain, Second Edition
EDITED BY MARGARET HOBBS AND CARLA RICE

Gender and Women’s Studies provides an essential introduction to key issues, approaches, and concerns of the field. This comprehensive anthology celebrates a diversity of influential feminist thought on a broad range of topics using analyses sensitive to the intersections of gender, race, class, ability, age, and sexuality. Drawing on contemporary and classic pieces, the carefully selected and edited readings centre Indigenous, racialized, disabled, and queer voices. With over 60 percent new content, this thoroughly updated second edition contains infographics and original activist artwork; a new section on gender, migration, and citizenship; and new chapters on sex work as labour, the politics of veiling, trans and queer identities, Indigenous sovereignty, decolonization, masculinity, online activism, and contemporary social justice movements including Black Lives Matter and Idle No More. Concerned with the past, present, and future of gender identity, gendered representations, feminism, and activism, this book is an indispensable resource for students in gender and women’s studies classrooms across Canada and the United States.

Margaret Hobbs is a Professor Emeritus and former Chair of Gender and Women’s Studies at Trent University. Carla Rice is a Full Professor, Canada Research Chair, and Founding Director of the Re•Vision Centre for Art and Social Justice at the University of Guelph.

FEATURES

• 60 percent new content featuring diverse authors and issues
• multiple genres and styles to engage students: scholarly articles, interviews, fact sheets, reports, blog posts, poetry, artwork, and personal narratives
• includes Canadian, North American, Indigenous, and global content

Feminist Food Studies
Intersectional Perspectives
EDITED BY BARBARA PARKER, JENNIFER BRADY, ELAINE POWER, AND SUSAN BELYEA

This expansive collection enriches the field of food studies with a feminist intersectional perspective, addressing the impacts that race, ethnicity, class, and nationality have on nutritional customs, habits, and perspectives. International scholars explore three areas in feminist food studies: the socio-cultural, the corporeal, and the material. The chapters intersect as they examine how food is linked to hegemony, identity, and tradition, while contributors offer diverse perspectives that stem from biology, museum studies, economics, popular culture, and history. With a unique multidisciplinary and global perspective, this vital resource is well suited to undergraduate students of food studies, nutrition, gender studies, sociology, and anthropology.

Barbara Parker is an Assistant Professor of Sociology at Lakehead University. Jennifer Brady is an Assistant Professor of Applied Human Nutrition at Mount Saint Vincent University. Elaine Power is an Associate Professor in the School of Kinesiology and Health Studies at Queen’s University. Susan Belyea is the director of a women’s centre at Queen’s University.

Working Women in Canada
An Intersectional Approach
EDITED BY LESLIE NICHOLS

In this edited collection, Leslie Nichols weaves together the contributions of accomplished and diverse scholars to offer an expansive and critical analysis of women’s work in Canada. Students will use an intersectional approach to explore issues of gender, class, race, immigrant status, disability, sexual orientation, Indigeneity, age, and ethnicity in relation to employment. Drawing from case studies and extensive research, the text’s 18 chapters consider Canadian industries across a broad spectrum, including political, academic, sport, sex trade, retail, and entrepreneurial work.

Working Women in Canada is a relevant and in-depth look into the past, present, and future of women’s responsibilities and professions in Canada. Undergraduate and graduate students in gender studies, labour studies, and sociology courses will benefit from this thorough and intersectional approach to the study of women’s labour.

Leslie Nichols, PhD, is a public policy researcher and social justice advocate. She investigates the marginalization of women, immigrants, youth, and other groups in the Canadian workforce and the social, political, and economic forces that create inequality for those populations.

Unsettling Activisms
Critical Interventions on Aging, Gender, and Social Change
EDITED BY MAY CHAZAN, MELISSA BALDWIN, AND PATRICIA EVANS

Drawing on diverse lived experiences, including contributions from leading feminist and age studies scholars, this volume investigates how powerful, interlocking forms of difference such as gender, class, race, ability, ethnicity, sexuality, and Indigeneity shape the meaning and experience of both aging and activism. This vital resource consists of eight analytic chapters and eight vibrant reflective pieces, alongside poignant poetry and photography. This collection is best suited for undergraduate and graduate courses in gender studies, activist and social movement studies, and age and aging studies.

May Chazan is a Canada Research Chair in Gender and Feminist Studies, and a Faculty Member in Gender and Women’s Studies at Trent University. Women in the “Promised Land”
Essays in African Canadian History
EDITED BY NINA REID-MARONEY, BOULOU EBandA DE B’BéRI, AND WANDA THOMAS BERNARD

A first of its kind, this collection places African Canadian women’s lived experiences, identities, and histories at the centre of Canada’s past and encourages readers to interrogate the idea of Canada as a “Promised Land.” Spanning slavery in the 1830s through to the activism of the late 20th century, this interdisciplinary collection draws on existing research from cultural studies, literary studies, communications, and visual culture to reframe familiar figures in African Canadian women’s history, such as feminist Mary Ann Shadd and civil rights activist Viola Desmond. Edited by leading scholars, this invaluable text sheds light on questions of the past, present, and future in the field, and is best suited for undergraduate courses in women’s studies, African studies, sociology, and history.

Nina Reid-Maroney is an Associate Professor and Chair of History at Huron University College. Boulou Ebanda de B’béri is a Full Professor in the Department of Communication at the University of Ottawa. Wanda Thomas Bernard is a Professor Emeritus of Social Work at Dalhousie University and a Canadian Senator.

Trans Activism in Canada
A Reader
EDITED BY DAN IRVING AND RUPERT RAJ

The first of its kind, this anthology brings together activists and allies to examine the various strategies and forms of resistance needed to transform oppression into opportunity for change. Centring the voices and experiences of trans-identified people as experts on their own lives and agents of change, Trans Activism in Canada opens up a dialogue between scholars and community members in an effort to improve the lives of sex and gender variant people. Reflecting upon the challenges trans communities face and offering insight into achieving institutional reform, the themes addressed range from poverty and isolation to health care and best practices.

Written for trans activists, scholars, and allies, Trans Activism in Canada is poised to enrich transgender theorizing by focusing on concrete experiences and practical knowledge gained from the everyday lives of trans people.

Dan Irving is an Assistant Professor of Sexuality Studies and Human Rights in the Institute of Interdisciplinary Studies at Carleton University. Rupert Raj is a psychotherapist specializing in gender and sexual identity in Toronto.

Women’s Voices from the Margins
Diaries from Kibera, Kenya
ELIZABETH SWART

Women’s Voices from the Margins explores the coping strategies, agency, and resilience of women living in Kibera, Kenya—one of Africa’s largest slums. Based on a multi-year research project in which the author analyzed the diaries of 20 young women from Kibera, this thought-provoking book describes the women’s lives, the realities of gender-based violence, and their responses and coping strategies. Drawing on both qualitative journal accounts and quantitative surveys, Elizabeth Swart reveals the agency and strength of these women, who create opportunities for themselves and their children despite the violence and extreme poverty that are a daily actuality of life in Kibera.

By presenting the voices of the young women alongside rich scholarly analysis, this engaging text will be a valuable resource to students and scholars of gender and women’s studies, sociology, international social work, and global studies.

Elizabeth Swart is an Adjunct Lecturer of Social Work at the University of Southern California.

Women and Genocide
Gendered Experiences of Violence, Survival, and Resistance
EDITED BY JOANN DIGEORGIO-LUTZ AND DONNA GOSBEE

Drawing from narratives, memoirs, testimonies, and literature, this groundbreaking volume brings together women's stories of victimization, trauma, and survival. By looking at genocide from a gendered perspective, Women and Genocide constitutes an important contribution to feminist research on war and political violence. This highly accessible text is an ideal resource for both students and instructors studying in women's studies, genocide studies, history, and political science.

Within the Confines
Women and the Law in Canada
EDITED BY JENNIFER M. KILTY

Leading voices in the field challenge the narrative that women and racialized minorities have achieved fundamental social equality in liberal democracies since the 1960s. The chapters in this volume critically examine topics such as colonialism, poverty, sex work, and reproductive rights. A valuable resource for a wide range of fields, including gender studies, criminology, sociology, social anthropology, political science, social work, and legal history, this multidisciplinary volume offers a fresh perspective on the disturbingly predictable judgments that criminalized women face in Canada.

Politics and Sex
Exploring the Connections between Gender, Sexuality, and the State
EDNA KEEBLE

Focusing on the particular challenges faced by women, Edna Keeble interrogates the relationship between the desire to control female sexuality and gender inequality in a broader political context. This introductory text brings together a diverse collection of issues including body image, body politics, the veiling of women, female genital mutilation or cutting, rape and sexual violence, pornography, and prostitution, and will encourage informed conversations about gender and sexuality in the political science classroom.

Becoming Girl
Collective Biography and the Production of Girlhood
EDITED BY MARNINA GONICK AND SUSANNE GANNON

Becoming Girl interrogates the everyday of girlhood through the collaborative feminist methodology of collective biography. This scholarly collection demonstrates how memories can be used to investigate the ways in which girlhood is culturally, historically, and socially constructed. Bringing together international and interdisciplinary girlhood scholars, this volume provides an innovative, inclusive, and collaborative method for understanding the relationship between the individual and the collective.

Canadian Men and Masculinities
Historical and Contemporary Perspectives
EDITED BY CHRISTOPHER J. GREIG AND WAYNE J. MARTINO

Canadian Men and Masculinities is a provocative and interdisciplinary work that examines the production and performance of manhood, boyhood, and embodied masculinity across Canadian history and culture. Adopting multiple perspectives, this collection considers how the construction of gender intersects with race, social class, sexuality, bodily abilities, and other categories of identity, and provides an exciting read for students of masculinity studies.

More Than a Labour of Love
Three Generations of Women’s Work in the Home
MEG LUXTON

Based on participant observation and in-depth interviews, this book describes the work women do in their homes, caring for children and partners, and maintaining the house. It shows how their lives are shaped by domestic responsibilities and challenges the ways in which their work is neither recognized nor valued. Arguing that the work they do is socially necessary and central to the economy, it calls for a transformation of current social and economic relations.

The Politics of Dental Care in Canada
CARLOS QUIÑONEZ

Filling a gap in the health policy literature, author and dental public health specialist Dr. Carlos Quiñonez explores the complexities surrounding Canada’s dental care system and policies, including how they came to be, their consequences, and what they mean for oral health and access to dental care.

The Politics of Dental Care in Canada seeks to answer a long-standing policy question in Canadian health care: why is dental care excluded from Canada’s national system of health insurance, Medicare? The text presents a history of dentistry in Canada from the late nineteenth century onward, outlining how dentistry traversed a developing Canadian welfare state. Dr. Quiñonez explores factors that led to dentistry’s separation from larger movements in health care policy, including moral questions on individual versus social responsibility over health, scientific advances in the field, and prevailing economic uncertainty.

Opening with a foreword by Dr. Dennis Raphael, this vital text offers an extensive overview on how the politics of dental care contributes to inequalities and inequities in oral health. From discussing scientific and public health advances in dentistry to looking at the general nature of oral health care in Canada from an international perspective, this text serves as an important addition to the field of health policy and a foundational resource for courses in dentistry, health studies, and comparative health policy.

Dr. Carlos Quiñonez is a researcher, dental public health specialist, and an Associate Professor and Director of the Specialty Training Program in Dental Public Health at the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto. His main focus is on applied policy research, with an emphasis on equity and the history, politics, and economics of dentistry.

FEATURES
• provides a comprehensive discussion on the current state of Canadian dental care policy as well as the history and factors that led to the policy, and the resulting outcomes and inequalities, from a leading figure in the dental public health field
• presents the latest available information on the epidemiology of oral diseases and conditions; the connection between oral health and systemic health; and the organization, financing, and delivery of oral health care in Canada and internationally

Praise for this title:
“Finally, an insightful book documenting Canada’s complex dental health care system. Thoroughly researched and referenced, this book is sure to become a primary resource for those leading, practising, or studying oral health care in Canada.”

—DR. DOUG BROTHWELL, DEAN AND PROFESSOR IN THE COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY, UNIVERSITY OF SASKATCHEWAN
Taking a unique look at health promotion and aging in Canada, this edited collection uses the action framework in the Ottawa Charter for Health Promotion to explore the factors and issues related to the health of older adults. The book is organized around the five action areas for health promotion: building healthy public policy, creating supportive environments, strengthening community action, developing personal skills, and reorienting health and social services.

Adhering to the holistic approach that health in older age involves physical, mental, emotional, social, and spiritual well-being, this comprehensive collection covers a wide range of interventions that are designed to benefit and protect the aging population’s health, quality of life, rights, and dignity, while building intergenerational solidarity and collaboration. Readers will learn about aging from a health promotion perspective; the context, environment, and issues related to older adults in Canada; as well as best practices in health promotion, public health, and the care of older adults. Promoting the Health of Older Adults is an invaluable resource for both graduate and undergraduate students in gerontology, health promotion, nursing, social work, and related fields.

Irving Rootman is an Adjunct Professor in the School of Public Health and Social Policy at the University of Victoria and an Executive Member of Health Promotion Canada. Peggy Edwards is a health promotion consultant, policy analyst, human rights activist, researcher, and author on healthy aging. Mélanie Levasseur is an occupational therapist, a researcher at the Research Centre on Aging, and a Full Professor and Director of Research in the School of Rehabilitation at Université de Sherbrooke. Frances Grunberg is a social work practitioner, educator, and advocate. FEATURES
- considers the implications of the COVID-19 pandemic for health promotion and aging
- provides an up-to-date profile of older adults in Canada and current/future trends in aging and health, including the use of new technologies and policies and practices in health promotion, public health, and other disciplines.
- includes a wealth of pedagogical features, such as learning objectives, critical thinking questions, a glossary, and online supplementary materials
Bioethics in Canada
A Philosophical Introduction, Third Edition
CAROL COLLIER AND RACHEL HALIBURTON

Now in its third edition, Bioethics in Canada: A Philosophical Introduction offers a comprehensive overview of the philosophical, historical, and medical concepts shaping contemporary debates on biomedical issues. The text opens with an introduction to moral theory and bioethical principles, followed by application of these theories and principles to real-world ethical conflicts involving abortion, distributive justice, genetics, reproductive technology, and other vital topics. A landmark case opens each chapter, illuminating the many issues involved in these debates, as well as the philosophical assumptions that shape them.

Thoroughly updated to reflect recent political, medical, and cultural changes, this third edition features new sections on Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD), the moral philosophy of liberalism in bioethics, the Mad movement, CRISPR and gene editing, and expanded content on mental health, rural and remote communities, and codes of conduct and codes of ethics.

Accessibly written with newly added case studies in the health care workplace, this text is an insightful resource for courses in the disciplines of philosophy, health studies, medicine, and nursing, providing a strong ethical foundation in an ever-changing field.

Carol Collier, formerly an Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of Sudbury–Laurentian University, is retired and living in Ottawa. Rachel Haliburton is a Full Professor in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Sudbury–Laurentian University.

FEATURES
- Canadian-focused content, case study scenarios, questions for critical thought, and recommended website lists in each chapter
- interesting legal cases and relevant current events that highlight the real-world application of bioethical theories and arguments
- instructor supplements available, including a test bank

Praise for the second edition:
“Bioethics in Canada is an extremely accessible introductory textbook—my students find it a pleasure to read. The authors provide a comprehensive overview of the main philosophical debates in bioethics. This is an excellent text that gives students a thorough understanding of the bioethical terrain in a Canadian context.”

Canadian Perspectives on Advanced Practice Nursing
Second Edition
EDITED BY ERIC STAPLES, ROGER PILON, AND RUTH A. HANNON

This expanded second edition of Canadian Perspectives on Advanced Practice Nursing uses a case-study approach to understanding advanced practice nursing roles and competencies and their impact across all levels of the health care system. Focusing on the roles of clinical nurse specialists and nurse practitioners, this volume explores the continued integration of advanced practice nursing in relation to social, political, educational, regulatory, legislative, and economic environments that have shaped them. The contributors articulate the historical development and evolution of advanced practice nursing in Canada, from rural and remote outpost beginnings to the present, and propose a vision for the future within the Canadian health care system. Highly accessible, comprehensive, and rich in pedagogy, this well-updated new edition is an indispensable resource for students in advanced practice nursing programs across Canada, as well as practising clinical nurse specialists, nurse practitioners, policy- and decision-makers, professional nursing organizations, and leaders in health care.

Eric Staples is an Independent Nursing Practice Consultant. For many years, he was an Assistant Professor and Regional Coordinator for the Ontario Primary Health Care Nurse Practitioner Program in the School of Nursing at McMaster University. Roger Pilon is an Associate Professor and Director at the School of Nursing at Laurentian University and a Primary Health Care Nurse Practitioner. Ruth A. Hannon is a Teaching Professor in the School of Nursing at McMaster University.

Praise for the second edition:
“Providing a highly inclusive approach in understanding APN roles, this book will continue to be a seminal and influential book for those wanting to become APNs, for APNs themselves, and for leaders grappling with understanding APN roles in Canada.”

—NATASHA PRODAN-BHALLA, NURSE PRACTITIONER, WOMEN’S HEART CLINIC/ACCESS CLINIC, AND ADJUNCT PROFESSOR, UBC AND UVIC

FEATURES
• uses a case-study methodology to explore how the Canadian Nurses Association’s pan-Canadian advanced practice nursing competencies are applied to real, current clinical cases
• features evidence-based content reflecting the current state of the advanced practice nursing field and delves into timely and topical subjects such as social determinants of health with Indigenous, inner-city, rural, remote, LGBT2SQ, and refugee and migrant populations in Canada
• discusses the unique challenges in the province of Quebec with respect to developing advanced practice nursing roles

The Politics of Health in the Canadian Welfare State
TOBA BRYANT AND DENNIS RAPHAEL

The first book to discuss the Canadian welfare state through a health-focused lens, The Politics of Health in the Canadian Welfare State argues that the nature of Canada’s liberal welfare state shapes the health care system, the social determinants of health, and the health of all Canadians. Documenting decades of work on the social determinants of health, authors Toba Bryant and Dennis Raphael explore topics such as power and influence in Canadian society, socially and economically marginalized populations, and approaches to promoting health. Each chapter examines different aspects of the links between public policy, health, and the welfare state, investigating how broader societal structures and processes of the country’s economic and political systems shape living and working conditions and, inevitably, the overall health of Canadians.

Contextualizing the history and status of Canadian health and health care systems with Canada’s welfare state, this concise and timely text is well suited as a supplementary resource for health studies, sociology of health, and nursing courses in universities across Canada.

Toba Bryant is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Health Sciences at Ontario Tech University. Author of Health Policy in Canada and co-editor of Staying Alive, she has also authored several journal articles and book chapters on policy change, women’s health, social determinants of health, and health equity. Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University, as well as the author of over 150 publications that speak to topics in public policy, poverty, and social determinants of health. One of Canadian Scholars’ top-selling authors, Raphael’s extensive list of publications includes Poverty in Canada and Social Determinants of Health: Canadian Perspectives.

Praise for this title:
“Throughout their careers, Bryant and Raphael have made valuable contributions to our understanding of the social determinants of health and health promotion strategies. This passionate and readable book takes the vital next step of examining how to improve uptake of these strategies in their home country of Canada.”

—CHERYL A. CAMILLO, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, JOHNSON SHOYAMA GRADUATE SCHOOL OF PUBLIC POLICY, UNIVERSITY OF REGINA; ASSOCIATE, NORTH AMERICAN OBSERVATORY ON HEALTH SYSTEMS AND POLICIES, UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

FEATURES
• provides a comprehensive overview of how the form of the welfare state acts as an important determinant of health
• includes international comparative data to demonstrate where Canada stands in comparison to other welfare states
• offers opportunities for further exploration of various topics through lists of further readings and websites
Poverty in Canada
Implications for Health and Quality of Life, Third Edition
DENNIS RAPHAEL

Now in its third edition, this comprehensive text provides a unique, interdisciplinary perspective on poverty and its impact on the health and quality of life of Canadians. Considering a broad range of topics, Dennis Raphael covers the central issues of defining and measuring poverty; situational and societal causes of poverty; health and social implications for individuals, communities, and society as a whole; and the means of reducing poverty’s incidence and responding to its effects. This volume will foster greater insight into the repercussions of poverty throughout society, encouraging readers to reflect on provocative questions at the end of each chapter.

Well updated to reflect current statistics and recent public policy changes, this new edition puts emphasis on the lived experiences of poverty. Poverty in Canada considers a range of issues that will be of great value to a variety of audiences, including those studying or working in health studies, social work, sociology, and equity studies.

Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University, as well as the author of over 150 publications that speak to topics in public policy, poverty, and social determinants of health. One of Canadian Scholars’ top-selling authors, Raphael’s extensive list of publications includes Staying Alive and Social Determinants of Health: Canadian Perspectives.

FEATURES
• expands on the analysis of why specific groups of Canadians are over-represented amongst those living in poverty, including Indigenous people, people of colour, and recent immigrants
• includes extensive lists of resources in each chapter
• features a section on the experience of poverty, touching on pathways to poverty, lived experiences, and interactions with the social assistance and health care system
Staying Alive
Critical Perspectives on Health, Illness, and Health Care, Third Edition
EDITED BY TOBA BRYANT, DENNIS RAPHAEL, AND MARCIA RIoux

Now in its third edition, Staying Alive provides readers with a fresh perspective on health, health care, and illness in Canada and abroad. Aiming to bring about positive change to these health care systems and grounded in a human rights approach to health, this unique collection includes chapters on the social construction of illness and disability, social determinants of health, and current critical issues in the field. The third edition has been thoroughly updated and includes recent national and international developments in health care, with current world statistics and an emphasis on austerity-related changes and their effects on health and health care systems. Packed with recommended readings and websites, critical thinking questions, and a glossary, this essential text is an invaluable read for undergraduate students, educators, and practitioners in health studies, nursing, and public health programs.

Toba Bryant is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Health Sciences at Ontario Tech University, and author of Health Policy in Canada. Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University. One of Canadian Scholars’ top-selling authors, Raphael’s extensive list of publications includes Poverty in Canada and Social Determinants of Health. Debating Health Care Ethics
Canadian Contexts, Second Edition
PATRICK FINDLER, DORAN SMOLKIN, AND WARREN BOURGEOIS

Now in its second edition, Debating Health Care Ethics explores contemporary moral challenges in health care, providing students with the tools to understand and critically evaluate arguments in the field and develop their own arguments on moral problems in health care. The textbook’s first three chapters explore the nature of arguments and ethical theories, while the remaining chapters discuss moral problems in health care through case studies and dramas featuring scenarios involving patients, family members, and health care providers. This new edition includes gender inclusive dramas, an expanded discussion of feminist ethics, a case study on euthanasia, and an update on fetal consciousness that informs the debate on abortion. Emphasizing critical issues in health care from a Canadian perspective, this essential textbook will benefit students in philosophy, nursing, and health studies.

Patrick Findler is a Professor in the Department of Philosophy at Kwantlen Polytechnic University, who teaches ethics, metaphysics, and the philosophy of sport. Doran Smolkin is a Professor in the Department of Philosophy at Kwantlen Polytechnic University, who specializes in teaching ethics. Warren Bourgeois is a Professor Emeritus from the Department of Philosophy at Kwantlen Polytechnic University.

Introduction to Health Informatics
A Canadian Perspective
CHRISTO EL MORR

The first of its kind, this engaging textbook unpacks health informatics from a uniquely Canadian perspective. With a bottom-up approach, author Christo El Morr identifies how health informatics influences and affects a range of Canadian health care stakeholders including patients, doctors, nurses, managers, clinicians, and governments. Presented in a clear and concise way, section one equips students with an overview of health informatics building blocks. Section two details major health informatics systems, and section three explores challenges with privacy, confidentiality, security, and emerging trends such as big data, gamification, and wearable technologies. Packed with key terms, reflection activities, quizzes, and assignments, this comprehensive introductory textbook is an invaluable read for undergraduate students, educators, and practitioners in the health informatics, health management, health policy, or global health fields.

Determinants of Indigenous Peoples' Health
Beyond the Social, Second Edition
EDITED BY MARGO GREENWOOD, SARAH DE LEEUW, AND NICOLE MARIE LINDSAY

Now in its second edition, this collection explores how health determinants, such as colonialism, gender, culture, early childhood development, the environment, geography, HIV/AIDS, medicine, and policy, impact the health status of Indigenous peoples in Canada. Grounded in expert voices of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis writers, this updated edition reflects the significant social and political events that dominated headlines over the last two years, such as the protests at Standing Rock, North Dakota, the US national election of 2016, the Indigenous youth suicide epidemic, and the inquiry into murdered and missing Indigenous women and girls in Canada. This revolutionary book is appropriate for undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in courses on health, public and population health, community health sciences, medicine, nursing, and social work.

Margo Greenwood is a Professor of Education and First Nations Studies at the University of Northern British Columbia. Sarah de Leeuw is an Associate Professor in the Northern Medical Program at the University of Northern British Columbia and an Associate Professor at the University of British Columbia. An Introduction to Global Health
Third Edition
MICHAEL SEEAR AND OBITIMMA EZEZIKA

The revised and thoroughly updated third edition of An Introduction to Global Health is constructed around three essential questions: why is population health so poor in developing countries, what is the scope of the issue, and how can it be remediated? By considering aspects such as poverty, malnutrition, wars, governance, and humanitarian disasters, Seear and Ezezika provide a comprehensive overview of the various determinants of global health. New to the third edition is an updated discussion on global health in relation to the Sustainable Development Goals, as well as the addition of chapter summaries, critical thinking questions, and recommended readings. This new edition is an ideal resource for undergraduate students in global health courses.

Michael Seear teaches at the University of British Columbia and is a Staff Physician in the Department of Respiratory/Intensive Care at the Children’s Hospital in Vancouver. Obidimma Ezezika is an Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, in the Interdisciplinary Centre for Health and Society at the University of Toronto Scarborough and in the Dalla Lana School of Public Health at the University of Toronto.

Public Policy and Canadian Nursing
Lessons from the Field
MICHAEL J. VILLENEUVE

Public Policy and Canadian Nursing offers an extensive overview of health policy and the expanding role of nurses in Canada. Focusing specifically on the larger nursing profession, Michael J. Villeneuve examines how issues surrounding health politics, funding, and practices have been impacted by nurses. The three modules cover the basics of health care policy, terminology, and governance; the history and evolution of health care in Canada and population health status; the various models for influencing and impacting public policy; and the systematic challenges that lie ahead. This unique guide will help students enter the nursing workforce better prepared to deliver high-quality care and manage teams, programs, organizations, and systems by enlightening their understanding of the way health care services are structured, funded, and evaluated. This valuable resource is suitable for use in senior undergraduate and graduate nursing and public health policy programs.

Michael J. Villeneuve is an established nurse leader with experience in clinical care delivery, education, management, research, and policy.

Research Literacy for Health and Community Practice
SONYA L. JAKUBEC AND BARBARA J. ASTLE

Research Literacy for Health and Community Practice introduces students to fundamental research concepts that will enable them to think critically about research and to recognize effective methods for understanding and utilizing research for practice. Rather than outlining methods for conducting research, this textbook outlines skills for engaging with research literature, including how to frame and organize knowledge, interpret and evaluate using qualitative and quantitative approaches, distinguish between research and other forms of information, and implement "best evidence" practices.

Offering a wealth of exercises, recommended readings, online resources, and in-class activities, this textbook satisfies the need for practical, beginner-level resources in research literacy courses across health studies disciplines.

Sonya Jakubec is an Associate Professor in the School of Nursing and Midwifery at Mount Royal University. Barbara Astle is an Associate Professor of Nursing and the Director of the Master of Science of Nursing Program at Trinity Western University.

A Concise Introduction to Mental Health in Canada
Second Edition
ELLiot M. Goldner, Emily Jenkins, and Dan Bilsker

A Concise Introduction to Mental Health in Canada offers a unique contribution to mental health literature. It covers the full spectrum of mental health issues in Canada, incorporating insights from both the physical and social sciences to expand the way readers think about mental health. Interdisciplinary and reader-friendly, this engaging book introduces students to a wide range of topics, including substance use, children and youth, discrimination, workplace mental health, culture, gender and sexuality, diagnosis, treatment, and mental health professions. This second edition provides a superb grounding for students of medicine, nursing, social work, psychology, and public health.

The late Elliot M. Goldner was a Professor and Director of the Centre for Applied Research in Mental Health and Addiction at Simon Fraser University. Emily Jenkins is an Assistant Professor in the School of Nursing at the University of British Columbia. Women's Health
Intersections of Policy, Research, and Practice, Second Edition
EDITED BY PAT ARMSTRONG AND ANN PEDERSON

In Women's Health, academics, health care professionals, and policy-makers examine the emergence of women's health as a field in Canada and investigate some of the challenges facing its advancement. This multidisciplinary collection links research, policy, and practice to explore how care work is gendered, to reveal how research can influence health policy, and to call for a renewed commitment to women's health advocacy. This revised edition has been thoroughly updated to reflect developments in research and recent social, political, and economic changes.

Mad Matters
A Critical Reader in Canadian Mad Studies
EDITED BY BRENDA A. LEFRANÇOIS, ROBERT MENZIES, AND GEOFFREY REAUME

Mad Matters is the first Canadian book to bring together the writings of this vital movement, which has grown explosively in the years since. With contributions from scholars in numerous disciplines, as well as activists and psychiatric survivors, it presents diverse critical voices that convey the lived experiences of the psychiatrized and challenges dominant understandings of “mental illness.” The connections between mad activism and other liberation struggles are stressed throughout, making the book a major contribution to the literature on human rights and anti-oppression.

Indigenous Knowledge Systems and Research Methodologies
Local Solutions and Global Opportunities
EDITED BY ELIZABETH SUMIDA HUAMAN AND NATHAN D. MARTIN

Bringing together researchers from geographically, culturally, and linguistically diverse regions, Indigenous Knowledge Systems and Research Methodologies offers practical guidance and lessons learned from research projects in and with Indigenous communities around the world. With an aim to examine issues of power, representation, participation, and accountability in studies involving Indigenous populations, the contributors reflect on their own experiences conducting collaborative research in distinct yet related fields. The book is anchored by specific themes: exploring decolonizing methodological paradigms, honouring Indigenous knowledge systems, and growing interdisciplinary collaboration toward Indigenous self-determination.

This volume makes a significant contribution to Indigenous community as well as institutional scholarly and practical discussions by emphasizing guidance and questions from Indigenous scholars who are designing studies and conducting research that is moving the field of Indigenous research methodologies forward. Discussing challenges and ideas regarding research ethics, data co-ownership, data sovereignty, and dissemination strategies, this text is a vital resource for all students interested in the application of what can be gained from Indigenous research methods.

Elizabeth Sumida Huaman (Wanka/Quechua) is an Associate Professor in Comparative and International Educational Development at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities. Nathan D. Martin is an Associate Professor of Justice and Social Inquiry in the School of Social Transformation at Arizona State University.

FEATURES
• presents proposals and visions for research with Indigenous communities that include both methodological and practical considerations
• draws on the experiences of the co-editors in developing and teaching research methods courses for Indigenous graduate students
• includes features such as chapter learning objectives, questions for critical thought, and key terms

Indigenous Food Systems
Concepts, Cases, and Conversations
EDITED BY PRISCILLA SETTEE AND SHAILESH SHUKLA

Unlike any other resource on the market, this textbook explores a diverse array of Indigenous food systems from across Canada, including Anishinaabeg, Asatiwisipe, Cree, Métis, Migmag, and Tsartlip. Seeking solutions to food insecurity and well-being for current and future generations, Indigenous and non-Indigenous food practitioners and scholars document the voices and experiences of community members encountered in their research, thus promoting an understanding of the barriers and challenges to Indigenous food systems and presenting ways used to reclaim cultural identity and food sovereignty. Offering in-depth case studies and critical conversations, Indigenous Food Systems reinforces the importance of the revitalization of Indigenous food knowledges for the health and well-being of Indigenous and Canadian populations.

This unique collection is a critical resource for students studying food security and food sovereignty in Indigenous studies, public health, anthropology, and social sciences as well as a useful reader for policymakers, researchers, and community practitioners.

Priscilla Settee is a member of Cumberland House Swampy Cree First Nations and a Professor in the Department of Indigenous Studies at the University of Saskatchewan. Shailesh Shukla is an Associate Professor at the Department of Indigenous Studies, University of Winnipeg.

FEATURES
• highlights community-based case studies, which demonstrate how Indigenous communities are leading the way to design and implement community-based initiatives in collaborative and cooperative spirit
• includes pedagogical features such as key terms, learning objectives, glossaries, critical thinking questions, and suggested reading lists in each chapter

Praise for this title:
“A long overdue and much needed contribution to the emerging field of critical food studies... This volume will bring essential insight to the theory and practice of food systems and become a part of the ongoing cross-cultural dialogue and development of new policy and practice.”

—CHARLES Z. LEVKOE, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR AND CANADA RESEARCH CHAIR IN SUSTAINABLE FOOD SYSTEMS, LAKEHEAD UNIVERSITY
In this edited collection, leading scholars seek to disrupt Eurocentric research methods by introducing students, professors, administrators, and practitioners to frameworks of Indigenous research methods through a lens of reconciliation. The foundation of this collection is rooted in each contributor's unique conception of reconciliation, which extends beyond the parameters of Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission to include a broader, more global approach to reconciliation. More pointedly, contributors discuss how effective research is when it's demonstrated through acts of reconciliation. Encouraging active, participatory approaches to research, this seminal text includes a range of tools, resources, and examples, presented through a variety of creative forms, such as storytelling, conversations, letters, social media, and visual methodologies that challenge linear ways of thinking and embrace Indigenous ways of knowing and seeing. This collection is a go-to resource for all disciplines with a research focus, including Indigenous studies, sociology, social work, education, gender studies, and anthropology.

Shawn Wilson is a Senior Lecturer at Southern Cross University in Australia. He is Opaskwayak Cree from northern Manitoba. Andrea V. Breen is a White settler who lives in the place we call Toronto. She is an Associate Professor of Family Relations and Human Development at the University of Guelph. Lindsay DuPré, MSW, is a Métis social worker, educator, and the Indigenous Education Liaison at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, currently living on Dish With One Spoon Treaty Territory.

FEATURES
• a focus on Indigenous methods of knowledge transmission that are not traditionally embraced in academia while challenging the Eurocentric concept of research
• explores research methodologies through the lens of reconciliation on a global scale
• a unique text that utilizes reflections of individual contributors, emphasizing the narrative of each chapter relevant to Indigenous traditions of storytelling

Indigenous Research
Theories, Practices, and Relationships
EDITED BY DEBORAH MCGREGOR, JEAN-PAUL RESTOULE, AND ROCHELLE JOHNSTON

Indigenous research is an important and burgeoning field of study. With the Truth and Reconciliation Commission’s call for the Indigenization of higher education and growing interest within academic institutions, scholars are exploring research methodologies that are centred in or emerge from Indigenous worldviews, epistemologies, and ontology. Contributors share their personal experiences of conducting Indigenous research within the academy in collaboration with their communities and with guidance from Elders and other traditional knowledge keepers. Indigenous Research is an essential read for students in Indigenous studies programs, as well as for those studying research methodologies in education, sociology, anthropology, and history.

Deborah McGregor is an Associate Professor and currently holds a Canada Research Chair in Indigenous Environmental Justice at Osgoode Law School and Faculty of Environmental Studies, York University. Jean-Paul Restoule is a Professor in and a Chair of the Department of Indigenous Education at the University of Victoria. Rochelle Johnston is a PhD Candidate at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education at the University of Toronto.

The First Nations of Ontario
Social and Historical Transitions
EDWARD J. HEDICAN

As John Steckley writes in his foreword, this unique text provides “something that has been missing from the literature for too long”—the first comprehensive overview of the histories, cultures, and socio-economic conditions of the First Nations of Ontario, the province/territory with the highest Indigenous population in Canada. Situated within the larger context of Canadian Indigenous issues, anthropologist Edward J. Hedican provides an accessible introduction to the complex and diverse histories of the First Nations of Ontario from early prehistoric times to contemporary day. With an annotated list of online resources, a glossary of important terms, and an extensive appendix providing information on every First Nation in Ontario, this text is an invaluable resource both for students in Indigenous studies and anthropology as well as for anyone interested in the rich culture and heritage of the First Nations of Ontario.

Edward J. Hedican is a Professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Guelph. He is widely considered one of today’s foremost Canadian anthropologists.
Bobbi Lee Indian Rebel

LEE MARACLE

Lee Maracle’s Bobbi Lee Indian Rebel tells the narrative of an Indigenous woman raised in North America who finds her strength despite the forces that challenge and oppress her. Grippingly honest, Lee’s autobiographical exploration of post-colonial tensions in Toronto circa 1960-1980 sheds light on the existing racist and sexist sentiments affecting Indigenous women. Reflective of the struggles Indigenous communities face today, this book continues to hold a place within contemporary Indigenous and women’s studies classrooms.

This updated and revitalized edition features a preface by Lee Maracle and cover art by Coast Salish artist Susan Point.

Lee Maracle is a Professor of Aboriginal Studies at the University of Toronto and an award-winning author and poet. She has received a “Writer of the Year” award from Circle Craft, a North American Native writer’s circle, and the JT Stewart Award for her body of work. She has an Honorary Doctorate from St. Thomas University and received the Queen’s Diamond Jubilee medal.

Ravensong–A Novel

LEE MARACLE

Set along the Pacific Northwest Coast in the 1950s, Ravensong tells the story of an urban Native community devastated by an influenza epidemic. Stacey, a 17-year-old Native girl, struggles with the clash between white society’s values and her family’s traditional ways, knowing that her future lies somewhere in between. Celia, her sister, has visions from the past, while Raven warns of an impending catastrophe before the two cultures reconcile. In this passionate story about a young woman’s quest for answers, author Lee Maracle speaks unflinchingly of the gulf between two cultures: a gulf that Raven says must be bridged. Ravensong is a moving drama that includes elements of prophecy, mythology, cultural critique, and humour. Featuring a preface by Lee Maracle and cover art by Métis artist Christi Belcourt, this revitalized edition is ideal for use in literature and gender and women’s studies programs.

Strong Helpers’ Teachings
The Value of Indigenous Knowledges in the Helping Professions, Second Edition
CYNDY BASKIN

Timely and accessible, Strong Helpers’ Teachings skillfully illustrates the importance of Indigenous knowledges in the human services. Making space for the voices of many Indigenous and non-Indigenous scholars, practitioners, and service users, Cyndy Baskin’s text models possible pathways toward relationship building and allyship. Placing Indigenous concerns and perspectives at the centre of social work disciplines, and through the use of examples and case studies, Baskin covers topics such as spirituality, research, justice, and healing. This thoroughly updated edition includes new chapters on self-care for helpers, holistic approaches to mental health, and two-spirit experiences. A call to action for all Indigenous peoples to teach what is needed to care for their communities, and for non-Indigenous peoples to recognize the value of these teachings, this text is an important resource for those interested in sharing, learning, and teaching Indigenous worldviews and helping practices.

Cyndy Baskin, Mi’kmaq and Celtic Nations, is an Associate Professor of Social Work at Ryerson University.

A Recognition of Being
Reconstructing Native Womanhood, Second Edition
KIM ANDERSON

A Recognition of Being is an inspiring work that explores Indigenous womanhood, highlighting both the painful legacy of colonialism and the vital potential of self-definition. Beginning with a look at the positions of women in traditional Indigenous societies and their status after colonization, Kim Anderson shows how Indigenous women have since resisted imposed roles and hetero-patriarchy, reclaimed their traditions, and reconstructed a powerful Native womanhood. Drawing from interviews with 40 Indigenous women from across Canada, this revised second edition covers recent literature on Indigenous feminism and two-spirited theory. With a foreword by Maria Campbell and updated closing dialogue with Bonita Lawrence, this groundbreaking text is an ideal resource for courses in women and gender studies and Indigenous studies, as well as for anyone committed to the process of decolonization.

Kim Anderson is an Associate Professor in the Department of Indigenous Studies at Wilfrid Laurier University. Anderson is a long-standing advocate for Indigenous women and families and is regularly involved in community-based research and teaching in this area.

Iskwewak Kah’ Ki Yaw Ni Wahkomakanak
Neither Indian Princesses nor Easy Squaws, Second Edition
JANICE ACOOSE

Iskwewak Kah’ Ki Yaw Ni Wahkomakanak is a foundational work of literary and cultural criticism. Deconstructing stereotypical images of the “Indian princess” and “easy squaw,” Janice Acoose reflects on the racism and sexism inherent to the colonial, historical, and contemporary representations of Indigenous women in Euro-Canadian literature and culture. Interweaving personal narrative and photographs with literary criticism, Acoose highlights influential Indigenous women writers who have made space for themselves in the literary field and who continue to challenge cultural stereotypes with stories of their own. This revised and thoroughly updated second edition, which also addresses the current crisis of missing and murdered Indigenous women and girls in Canada, remains an invaluable resource for students and instructors of Indigenous studies, women’s studies, and literature.

Janice Acoose holds a PhD from the University of Saskatchewan and is a Sessional Lecturer with the Northern Teacher Education Program, an activist-educator, and an internationally recognized Indigenous literary critic, writer, researcher, and consultant. Her roots stem from the Sakimay First Nation and the Marival Métis community.

Sivumut—Towards the Future Together
Inuit Women Educational Leaders in Nunavut and Nunavik
EDITED BY FIONA WALTON AND DARLENE O’LEARY

This unique collection features auto-ethnographical essays by nine Inuit women educators who were part of the inaugural cohort of the University of Prince Edward Island’s Nunavut Master of Education program, which offered Nunavut’s first graduate-level degree for Inuit educators. These essays provide important first-hand perspectives on Inuit education, reflecting upon the dramatic changes that have taken place in the Eastern Arctic over the past 50 years. The chapters offer insight into both the effects of colonialism and the efforts to build a new educational system grounded in Inuit culture, values, and traditions. Inuit voices have yet to be heard within education scholarship in Canada, making this volume a significant contribution to the literature. This anthology will also be of interest to students of Indigenous and Arctic studies, sociology, and anthropology.

Fiona Walton is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Prince Edward Island. She was previously a special education consultant and the director of early childhood and school services in the Northwest Territories/Nunavut. Darlene O’Leary earned her PhD in Theology from Saint Paul University and is currently a researcher at the University of Prince Edward Island.

Princess Pocahontas and the Blue Spots
MONIQUE MOJICA

Rich in satire, Monique Mojica’s critique of the misrepresentation of Indigenous women in American myth, literature, and documentary confronts a long-standing history of sexual violence and condemns colonial traditions that represent Indigenous women as little more than creators and healers. Since it was first published in 1991, Princess Pocahontas and the Blue Spots has become a classic in Canadian theatre and is still widely studied at universities and colleges around the world.

The remarkable CBC radio play Birdwoman and the Suffragettes: A Story of Sacajawea is also included.

Monique Mojica is a Kuna-Rappahannock half-breed, a woman word-warrior, a mother, an actor, and a playwright. She is a founding member and former Artistic Director of Native Earth Performing Arts.

Walking in the Good Way /
Ioterihwakwaríhshion Tsi Íhse
Aboriginal Social Work Education
EDITED BY INGRID THOMPSON COOPER AND GAIL STACEY MOORE

Offering concrete direction for some and validation for others, this groundbreaking book encourages engagement in much-needed discourse on Indigenous social work education. Centred on the strengths, weaknesses, and healing powers of Indigenous social work education programs, the 12 original articles in this collection cover the efforts made over the past 25 years to develop and deliver social work education that meets the needs of Indigenous students in Canada, Australia, and New Zealand.

Informative and engaging, Walking in the Good Way / Ioterihwakwaríhshion Tsi Íhse is a vital resource for the social work classroom.

Ingrid Thompson Cooper is a Social Work Professor at McGill University and has written and taught widely in the areas of child sexual abuse, criminology, and forensic psychiatry.

Poverty, Mental Health, and Social Inclusion
EDITED BY CHERYL FORCHUK AND RICK CSIERNIK

Poverty, Mental Health, and Social Inclusion offers a comprehensive selection of chapters written by academic researchers as well as direct practitioners and mental health consumer-survivors to examine the intersection of poverty, mental health, and social exclusion. With the aim of addressing complex issues from homelessness and housing to stigma and mental health, the volume presents the perspectives of a wide range of those affected by poverty and social exclusion including Canadian veterans, Indigenous women, homeless youth and families, and mental health consumer-survivors. Divided into four sections, the chapters explore the effects of social exclusion, examine the trajectory of how it occurs, analyze harmful policies in place that exacerbate the correlation between poverty and mental health issues, and introduce potential solutions to expand social inclusion to marginalized groups.

Accessibly written, this text will be a valuable resource for courses on mental health, poverty, and social policy across the disciplines of social work, sociology, and health studies at both the graduate and undergraduate level.

Cheryl Forchuk is a Distinguished University Professor in the Arthur Labatt Family School of Nursing at Western University; a Scientist and Assistant Director at the Lawson Health Research Institute; and the Beryl and Richard Ivey Research Chair in Aging, Mental Health, Rehabilitation, and Recovery at the Parkwood Research Institute in London, Ontario. Rick Csiernik is a Professor in the School of Social Work at King’s University College, Western University. He has authored and edited over a dozen books, including The Essential Guide to Psychoactive Drugs in Canada, Substance Use and Misuse, The Drug Paradox, and Responding to the Oppression of Addiction.

FEATURES
- includes research that represents the lived experiences of those living in poverty and homelessness, organized in a narrative framework
- covers a wide range of issues related to social inclusion, exclusion, and mental health
- provides a critical overview of current housing, income support, and mental health policies and their effectiveness
Canadian Society in the Twenty-First Century
An Historical Sociological Approach,
Fourth Edition
TREVOR W. HARRISON AND JOHN W. FRIESEN

Now in its fourth edition, Canadian Society in the Twenty-First Century examines Canada’s development and current circumstances in a socio-historical framework. This foundational text encourages students to consider some of the tough questions Canadian citizens are likely to face in adjusting to the demands and challenges of life in the twenty-first century. Divided into three sections, the text investigates economic, political, cultural, and ideological perspectives through three main relationships: Canada and Quebec, Canada and the United States, and Canada and Indigenous Peoples. Each of these sections deals with large issues impacting all societies in the early 21st century: nationalism, neo-liberalism, and cultural values of social solidarity that persist, despite modernity. The final chapter revisits the importance of socio-historical methods, the roles of state and markets, and sociological theory in a wider context, ending with a look at the sociological implications of the global pandemic.

Exploring the unique character of modern Canadian society, this is a vibrant introductory resource for sociology courses on Canadian society, as well as undergraduate courses in Canadian studies and Canadian history across North America.

Trevor W. Harrison is Professor of Sociology at the University of Lethbridge and Director of the Parkland Institute. His areas of specialization include Canadian society, political economy, and public policy. John W. Friesen is Professor Emeritus at the Werklund School of Education, University of Calgary. His research interests include teacher education, ethnic studies, and Indigenous education.

Praise for the fourth edition:
“This is the best and most readable text on Canadian society. It takes a fresh look at current issues including the pandemic and the climate emergency and delves into the tensions and dynamics that shaped Canada.”
—GORDON LAXER, PROFESSOR EMERITUS OF POLITICAL ECONOMY, UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA, AND AUTHOR OF AFTER THE SANDS: ENERGY AND ECOLOGICAL SECURITY FOR CANADIANS

FEATURES
• updated statistics and data that reflect current scholarship in the field and new discussions on issues such as the current crisis of neo-liberal globalization, Canada’s petroleum industry, global warming, the Wet’suwet’en dispute in 2020, and the COVID-19 pandemic
• includes annotated lists of recommended readings, videos, and websites; critical thinking questions; and a newly added glossary
• integrates sociological concepts in an accessible and engaging way to help students understand the foundations of contemporary Canadian society
The Scientific Method in Forensic Science
A Canadian Handbook
MIKE ILLES AND PAUL WILSON

Written for the Canadian forensic science student and the professional practitioner, this timely and practical handbook provides an experience-based learning tool. This text offers an understanding of the scientific method and evidence-based analysis and how they relate to forensic science and its casework—from the crime scene to the courtroom—within the Canadian context. The authors explore the paradigm shift in forensic science, highlight basic skills like scientific reasoning and literature review, as well as untangle the complexities of ethics and bias, research design, critical thought, and best practices for communication in various settings. Case examples and court testimonies are reviewed to underscore the importance of these concepts.

By blending such real-life examples with scientific concepts like validation, peer review, accountability, and transparency, The Scientific Method in Forensic Science is a fundamental read for students in introductory forensics, criminology, police studies, and anthropology.

Dr. Mike Illes is a Professor in the Trent University Forensic Science Undergraduate and Graduate Programs. Prior to this, he spent 24 years as a Canadian forensic science practitioner and instructed on forensic science in the United States, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Scotland, and other Canadian academic institutions. Dr. Paul Wilson has participated in hundreds of cases and has testified in over 30 trials as an expert witness in DNA profiling and wildlife forensic science. He served as the founding Chair of the Professional Forensic Science Program at Trent University. Paul served as the Canada Research Chair in DNA Profiling, Forensics and Functional Genomics for two terms, 10 years, and is currently a Professor in the Biology Department at Trent University.

FEATURES
- includes questions for critical thought, suggestions for further reading, a glossary, and additional instructional pop-outs
- provides an experience-based learning opportunity for understanding the scientific method
- utilizes case studies and court transcripts to illustrate practical applications in a Canadian context
Developing Public Policy
BOBBY SIU

The second edition explores the factors and dimensions involved in recognizing and resolving public problems. By presenting six principles for developing good public policy, Bobby Siu identifies various approaches that are used to determine issues, conduct research, formulate policy options and recommendations, and derive intelligent decisions. Featuring thorough updates, this edition reflects newly developed policy areas and topics, including a new chapter on post-policy considerations and more than double the amount of exercises for students to practice policy writing and consultations. With its presentations of vital strategies, tactics, guidelines, and checklists for public policy developers working within the Canadian federal or provincial government, this text is well suited for college and university programs in public policy, public administration, political science, health policy, and human rights and equity.

Dr. Bobby Siu is a former Adjunct Professor of Public Policy, Administration, and Law at York University. He has over 16 years of public policy development, program implementation, and public administration experience in the government sector.

Research Methods
Exploring the Social World in Canadian Contexts, Second Edition
DIANE SYMBALUK

Now in its second edition, Research Methods offers students a highly accessible and engaging introduction to research methodology from a uniquely Canadian perspective. This text examines both qualitative and quantitative research methods from the early planning stages to writing proposals and reports, including common errors in reasoning and research, alongside inquiry paradigms, theoretical frameworks, and relevant literature reviews. New to this edition are sections on Indigenous knowledges and the need for decolonizing methods, emerging practices and technologies, expanded information on theory and data analysis, and updated figures, statistics, and current online resources. This text is an ideal resource for students in sociology, social work, and anthropology who are completing the research methods component of their degree.

Diane Symbaluk is a Professor of Sociology at MacEwan University who teaches criminology, social psychology, and research methods. She helped establish the research ethics policy, ethics board, and ethics appeal structure that continue to guide research at MacEwan University.

Research as Resistance
Revisiting Critical, Indigenous, and Anti-Oppressive Approaches, Second Edition
EDITED BY SUSAN STREGA AND LESLIE BROWN

This second edition of Research as Resistance builds upon the resistance-based methods featured in the first edition and contributes to the recent resurgence of marginalized knowledges in social science research, drawing from Indigenous, feminist, and critical race scholarship. Bringing together the theory and practice of anti-oppressive research, this substantially revised and updated edition features new chapters that address narrative research, Foucauldian methods, community action research, queer theory, and insurgent Indigenous research. With a unique emphasis on both the theoretical foundations and practical applications of socially just research, this collection is an invaluable resource for senior undergraduate and graduate courses on anti-oppressive practice and research theory and methods in the social sciences.

Susan Strega is a Professor in the School of Social Work at the University of Victoria. Leslie Brown is a Professor in the School of Social Work and the Director of the Institute for Studies and Innovation in Community-University Engagement at the University of Victoria.

Work and Labour in Canada
Critical Issues, Third Edition
ANDREW JACKSON AND MARK P. THOMAS

The demographic composition of the labour market is transforming, yet this change is conditioned by long-standing patterns of inequality in terms of gender, race, disability, and immigration status. The third edition of Work and Labour in Canada maps out major trends and patterns that define working life, and identifies the economic, social, and political factors that shape the contemporary workplace. While evaluating working conditions and job quality from a critical perspective, the authors point toward possibilities for a more equitable and democratic future of work. Thoroughly updated and featuring recommended readings, internet resources, and a new chapter on disability and work, this revised edition is an essential textbook for teachers, researchers, labour activists, and students of labour studies and sociology of work.

Andrew Jackson is a Senior Policy Advisor at the Broadbent Institute and an Adjunct Research Professor in the Institute of Political Economy at Carleton University. Mark P. Thomas is an Associate Professor of Sociology and Director of the Global Labour Research Centre at York University.

Missing Persons
Multidisciplinary Perspectives on the Disappeared
EDITED BY DEREK CONGRAM

Uniting the voices of 22 experts from academic, government, and civil sectors who study and help search for missing persons in Canada and internationally, Derek Congram’s new collection responds to growing public awareness of persons who have disappeared due to armed conflict, repressive regimes, criminal behaviour, and racist and colonial policies toward Indigenous persons and minority populations.

Missing Persons centres its attention on scientists, law-enforcement agents, and researchers, and how they serve and relate to those who seek others. This multidisciplinary volume both attends to the varied circumstances of disappearance and illustrates how disparate contexts connect, making for a valuable comparative resource in criminology and forensic anthropology, science, and psychology classrooms.

Derek Congram is a Researcher and a Lecturer at the University of Toronto and an Independent Forensic Consultant.

Immigration, Public Policy, and Health
Newcomer Experiences in Developed Nations
EDITED BY DENNIS RAPHAEL

A critical assessment of how public policy affects the health of immigrants, this interdisciplinary volume is an integral contribution to the study of immigration in modern developed nations. The contributors employ a welfare state analysis to examine the political and economic systems that shape public policy, turning to several Canadian and international case studies that demonstrate how these policies specifically impact immigrant experiences and health outcomes.

Exploring ideals of multiculturalism, solidarity, and equity, Dennis Raphael’s edited collection is an excellent resource for students interested in comparative health care systems, health economics, and global immigrant experiences.

Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University, as well as the author of over 150 publications that speak to topics in public policy, poverty, and social determinants of health. One of Canadian Scholars’ top-selling authors, Raphael’s extensive list of publications includes Poverty in Canada and Social Determinants of Health.

Changing Communities

PATRICIA SPINDEL

Experienced community organizer and professor Patricia Spindel provides a practical guide for producing change through community action and social activism in the updated second edition of Changing Communities. Spindel explores who has power in society and how communities can mobilize to create positive change by building capacity, developing community structures, and taking direct action to shift power relations.

Outlining a practical approach to asset mapping, creating community economic development strategies, and critiquing some current approaches to community development, the chapters cover topics including the impact of corruption and the influence of powerful interests, community strengths and needs assessment, community-based research, various community development strategies, and the principles and some of the tactics used in community organization. Equipped with case studies and practical examples, this fundamental guide is an essential resource for students in community development, social service work, gerontology, and other human services and helping professions.

Dr. Patricia Spindel has worked with youth and engaged in systemic advocacy for people with developmental disabilities and their families and older adults for over 40 years. She taught at both the University of Guelph-Humber and the Humber College Institute of Technology and Advanced Learning, where she also coordinated the Social Services Worker Program and was an Associate Dean of Health Sciences. She is a former President of Concerned Friends of Ontario Citizens in Care Facilities, co-founder of the Advocacy Centre for the Elderly, organizer of the Ontario Coalition for Nursing Home Reform, and co-founder of Seniors for Social Action Ontario. Dr. Spindel is also the author of Working with Families and Case Management from an Empowerment Perspective.

Praise for the second edition:
“This is a current and refreshing look at community health and change. A welcome addition to examining community change in Canada.”

—TRACIE HOWIESON, SCHOOL OF COMMUNITY SERVICES, NORTHERN COLLEGE

FEATURES
• includes a community strengths-based assessment framework developed by the author, referred to as the Strengths, Assets, Challenges, and Opportunities Assessment (SACO)
• offers case studies and practical examples from Canada and the United States
• provides students with practical knowledge on how to build powerful coalitions, raise funds for grassroots projects, and deal with the press and social media, including how to write a press release
Protecting Children
Theoretical and Practical Aspects
EDITED BY KATHLEEN KUFELDT, BARBARA FALLON, AND BRAD MCKENZIE

Focusing on children who are subject to welfare intervention, Protecting Children addresses the challenges and issues of the child welfare system and provides foundational knowledge on the theoretical and practical aspects of the field. This edited collection begins with a review of key concepts, including child development, attachment, and resilience theories; social policies; family law; and ethics. Highlighting the translation of theory into practice, the contributors discuss current services and the search for best practice internationally, as well as explore Indigenous child welfare and offer conclusions and recommendations to promote positive outcomes for children and families involved in the system.

Scholars, researchers, and practitioners from across the globe provide insight on a wide range of timely issues, such as the risk of reductionism, limits to predictability, pragmatic issues, as well as the disproportional presence in the care system of minority groups, including Indigenous children, children of new immigrants and refugees, children in LGBTQ communities, and children of the poor. This foundational volume is an important resource for courses in social work and child welfare.

Kathleen Kufeldt is an Adjunct Professor in the Faculty of Social Work at the University of Calgary. She has worked directly with children and fostered teenagers and has earned an international reputation. Her academic positions have included Assistant Dean in University of Calgary’s Faculty of Social Work and Chair in Child Protection at Memorial University of Newfoundland. Barbara Fallon is a Professor at the Factor-Inwentash Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto. She holds a Canada Research Chair in Child Welfare and was formerly the Associate Dean of Research. Brad McKenzie is a Professor Emeritus at the University of Manitoba, Faculty of Social Work.

FEATURES
• includes contributions from researchers, practitioners, and scholars from Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and the United States
• highlights Indigenous authors and personal stories of service users, and includes figures and tables throughout the text, as well as section introductions and conclusions to situate main theories and concepts for students
Substance Use and Misuse

Everything Matters, Third Edition

RICK CSIERNIK

The revised third edition of the formerly titled Substance Use and Abuse retains its comprehensive, holistic examination of the field of substance use and misuse from a Canadian perspective. Now organized into seven sections, the 30 chapters examine the nature of addiction; explore biological, psychological, and social theories that attempt to explain addiction; discuss drugs that produce addiction, along with a review of prevention, treatment, and treatment system options; and consider the legal and ethical issues that those working in substance use and addiction frequently encounter. Thoroughly updated to reflect contemporary issues and recent advances in the field of addiction counselling, Rick Csiernik’s much-loved text features new content on the changes to cannabis law and culture in Canada, the opioid crisis and public response, as well as expanded content on cultural competence, non-substance use addictive behaviours, motivational interviewing, and relapse prevention.

Substance Use and Misuse is an essential and timely resource for counsellors treating individuals dealing with addiction, and for courses across social work, human services counselling, psychology, and mental health and addictions programs.

Rick Csiernik is a Professor in the School of Social Work at King’s University College, Western University. He has authored and edited over a dozen books, including The Essential Guide to Psychoactive Drugs in Canada, The Drug Paradox, and Responding to the Oppression of Addiction.

Praise for the second edition:

“Presenting a comprehensive look at the current field of addiction from a uniquely Canadian perspective, this foundational text delivers the big picture of our broad addiction continuum and supports it with a wealth of detail for further reflection. A valuable resource in the classroom and beyond.”

—CHRISTIE MCGAGHRAN, PROGRAM MANAGER, ADDICTION EDUCATION PROGRAM, CENTRE FOR CONTINUING EDUCATION, MCMASTER UNIVERSITY

FEATURES

• now divided into seven sections with 30 chapters to enhance student comprehension and learning

• contains new information on contemporary themes including the opioid crisis, e-cigarettes and vaping, risks and benefits of THC and CBD, principles of good family skills training, sample dialectical behavioural therapy (DBT) activities, and a sample intervention script

• includes an enhanced treatment section with updates on harm reduction, trauma-informed care, the transtheoretical model of change, and motivational interviewing
Case Management from an Empowerment Perspective
A Guide for Health and Human Services Professionals, Fourth Edition
PATRICIA SPINDEL

Written for aspiring case managers planning to work in health and human services, this practical guide addresses the need for more progressive and compassionate ways of working with others. Introducing innovative strategies for working with people that challenge the status quo, the book reconsiders old forms of social casework in favour of empowerment approaches that incorporate individual and systemic advocacy. Patricia Spindel explores the history of case management; traditional approaches and their critiques; barriers to an empowerment approach; the ethical issues of labelling, stereotyping, stigmatization, and pathologizing; and key empowerment philosophies and the research that supports them.

Now in its fourth edition, this widely adopted resource provides concrete methods that will help readers put principles of empowerment philosophy into practice. With practical case studies and questions for reflection featured throughout the chapters, it is well suited for human services, social services, and social work programs in colleges and universities in Canada.

Dr. Patricia Spindel has worked with youth and engaged in systemic advocacy for people with developmental disabilities and their families and older adults for over 40 years. She taught at both the University of Guelph-Humber and the Humber College Institute of Technology and Advanced Learning, where she also coordinated the Social Services Worker Program and was an Associate Dean of Health Sciences. Dr. Spindel is also the author of Working with Families and Changing Communities.

FEATURES
• offers a practical “how to” for developing an empowerment plan and deals with common issues in practice, such as projection, countertransference, and transference
• includes core concepts of empowerment and methodology for building individual and community capacity and competence
• provides students with case studies from the field and questions to encourage reflection
Critical Clinical Social Work
Counterstorying for Social Justice
EDITED BY CATRINA BROWN AND JUDY E. MACDONALD

With the aim of producing counterstories that participate in social resistance, Critical Clinical Social Work focuses on integrating critical theory with direct clinical practice. Exploring the impact of oppression and power in constraining and limiting people’s voices, this timely resource moves social work forward by highlighting the practical application of feminist, narrative, anti-racist, and postcolonial frameworks. The contributors tackle a range of substantive issues including ethics, working with complex trauma, men’s use of violence, substance use among women and girls, Indigenous social work praxis, critical child welfare approaches, counterstorying experiences of (dis)Ability, and animal-informed social work practice.

Written by Canadian social work educators and filled with illustrative case studies, this text offers a Canadian perspective on the diverse issues social workers encounter in the field. This edited collection is an indispensable resource for social work practice and theory courses, and a must-read for professional practitioners.

Catrina Brown is an Associate Professor and Graduate Coordinator in the School of Social Work at Dalhousie University, with cross-appointments in Gender and Women’s Studies and Nursing. Judy E. MacDonald is the Director of the School of Social Work and Assistant Dean of Equity and Inclusion in the Faculty of Health at Dalhousie University.

FEATURES
• promotes critical clinical skills consistent with anti-oppressive and social justice paradigms of social work
• offers case histories and examples of direct critical clinical practice
• concludes with reflections on social resistance and transformation through counterstorying

Praise for this title:
“Finally, a clinical social work text that respectfully engages with existing critical social work literature! This work is a courageous and necessary engagement with the complexities of applying critical theories and post-, anti-, neo-, and de- (modern, liberal, structural, colonial) epistemologies to clinical social work. An absolute necessity for critical social work practice.”

Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Practice
EDITED BY SAMANTHA WEHBI AND HENRY PARADA

Written by practitioners, educators, and students who have long engaged with anti-oppression and social justice frameworks, the chapters in this collection offer in-depth insights into how anti-oppression principles can enhance social work practice. Through supportive critiques and an exploration of the complexities of practice with and by marginalized populations, the authors seek to push the scope and boundaries of anti-oppression practice. They offer concrete examples on a diversity of issues, including developing Indigenous practice principles, addressing anti-Black sanism, challenging normative constructions of grief, supporting queer resistance, and advancing critical practices with children and youth. A well-timed contribution to the field, this thought-provoking and engaging edited collection will be an indispensable resource for social work students, scholars, and practitioners.

Mulé is an Associate Professor of Social Work at York University.
Family Matters
An Introduction to Family Sociology in Canada, Fourth Edition
BARBARA A. MITCHELL

Now in its fourth edition, Family Matters offers an enriched discussion on a variety of substantive issues experienced by diverse Canadians across the life course. Adopting a feminist sociological approach throughout, this popular textbook explores family dynamics through a critical life course theoretical lens. This over-arching perspective is used to examine how social, economic, and historical processes related to gender roles, age and generational location, ethnicity and race, geographical location, and social change shape contemporary family life.

As a leading name in sociology, Barbara Mitchell has thoroughly updated the previous edition to reflect timely current events, recent census data, and cutting-edge research. Providing more detailed and nuanced discussions of many areas including life course and other styles of critical theorizing on families, this new edition examines the history of slavery and Black family life in Canada, Indigenous families, foreign/temporary workers, intersectional and racialized processes influencing families, youth activism, transgender children, technology and social media, and the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on aging families.

Approachable, concise, and filled with discussion questions, activities, and resources for further reading, Family Matters is the perfect resource for students enrolled in introductory or advanced level courses in family sociology and gender studies.

Barbara A. Mitchell is a Professor in the Department of Sociology/Anthropology, jointly appointed with the Department of Gerontology, at Simon Fraser University.

FEATURES
• up-to-date material featuring current events, recent research studies, and statistics, including census and other national data sets
• new and expanded content on a wide range of timely topics such as Indigenous and racialized family life, transgender children, technology and social media, and the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on aging families
• examines the history of slavery and Black family life in Canada
• includes an updated instructor resource package equipped with PowerPoint slides, video resource suggestions, and a test bank

Praise for the third edition:
“Family Matters is an essential book for any course exploring contemporary issues facing today’s Canadian families.”

Body Studies in Canada
Critical Approaches to Embodied Experiences
EDITED BY VALERIE ZAWILSKI

How do we perceive ourselves and our bodies in relation to our physical, geographical, social, cultural, political, psychological, and spiritual environments? Body Studies in Canada uses intersectional methodological and theoretical frameworks to discuss the political and socio-historical discourses that shape body studies in Canadian society.

This edited volume delves into a variety of timely topics including post-colonial “othering” of the body; social discourses around healthy and un-healthy bodies; intersections of aging, gender, race, class, and size; the fitness industries’ promotion of the “ideal” body; the gendering of bodywork symbols and expressions in carceral environments; and self-awareness of “the body” in social and digital media.

In thirteen chapters, editor Valerie Zawilski brings together scholars from a wide variety of disciplines and expertise to provide an interdisciplinary perspective on how the body interacts reflexively with society. This collection is a foundational text for sociology of the body and body studies courses, as well as gender studies, political science, and health studies.

Valerie Zawilski is an Associate Professor of Sociology and Criminology at King’s University College at Western University. Her research interests include social movements, human rights, health and illness, and human trafficking.

FEATURES

• provides a uniquely Canadian perspective on body studies and the surrounding historical and political issues, with a focus on decolonization, racialization, masculinities, engagement with critical weight scholarship, and immigration

• pedagogical features include section introductions, boxed inserts highlighting key concepts, learning objectives, questions for critical thinking, and a glossary

Race and Racialization

Essential Readings, Second Edition

EDITED BY TANIA DAS GUPTA, CARL E. JAMES, CHRIS ANDERSEN, GRACE-EDWARD GALABUZI, AND ROGER C. A. MAKA

Few words have generated as much debate and controversy as the word race. Through a critical examination of this complex subject, this anthology brings together essential contributions to the study of race and racialization. An excellent compilation of classic and contemporary works by academic and activist writers, Race and Racialization provides historical, comparative, and global perspectives on race and its intersection with gender, class, ethnicity, indigeneity, and sexuality. This well-updated second edition includes a new section on state multiculturalism and a diverse ensemble of Canadian and international contributors who explore such relevant themes as colonialism, institutional racism, ethnocentrism, privilege, marginalization, and resistance.

Featuring annotated lists of supplementary readings to encourage further exploration and contributions by activists from Idle No More and Black Lives Matter, this comprehensive and highly accessible anthology is perfect for students studying race, racism, cultural diversity, identity and belonging, social inequality, and social justice.

The Drug Paradox
An Introduction to the Sociology of Psychoactive Substances in Canada
TARA L. BRUNO AND RICK CSIERNIK

The Drug Paradox examines both the empirically founded and the socially constructed facets of drugs and drug use, highlighting the incongruous aspects of laws, policies, and programming that aim to address behaviours around drugs. Using a policy-oriented approach while also emphasizing the utility of a multifaceted bio-psycho-social model, this text provides students with a foundation in the sociology of psychoactive substances in the Canadian context. It covers models of addiction, the history of Canada’s drug laws, media representation, and international perspectives on drug policy, and addresses the competing discourses on drugs in society. This timely textbook is ideal for use in sociology courses on drugs or drug use and will also appeal to those focusing on drug use from a criminology, public health, cannabis studies, or policy perspective.

Tara L. Bruno is an Associate Professor of Sociology at King’s University College, Western University. Rick Csiernik is a Professor of Social Work at King’s University College. Rethinking Society in the 21st Century
Critical Readings in Sociology, Fourth Edition
EDITED BY MICHELLE WEBBER AND KATE BEZANSON

Rethinking Society in the 21st Century is a critical collection of readings that provides students with a foundational knowledge base in sociology. Thoroughly updated to include significant Canadian content and with a greater focus on Indigeneity, gender, and sexuality, this anthology introduces students to the fundamental elements of sociology with a balance of classical theory and more contemporary approaches found in the works of Michel Foucault and Dorothy Smith. Building on this theoretical grounding, the text outlines core concepts in sociology as well as major social institutions such as families, the economy and labour, education, health care, and media. Covering a wide breadth of topics, including chapters on animals, the environment, crime, trans issues, class, ethnicity, and race, this new edition explores critical debates in Canadian society with an emphasis on intersectional approaches to social inequalities. Uniquely designed for introductory courses, this reader is ideal for students in sociology programs across Canada.

Michelle Webber is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology at Brock University. Kate Bezanson is an Associate Professor and Chair of the Department of Sociology at Brock University.

Sociology of Home
Belonging, Community, and Place in the Canadian Context
EDITED BY GILLIAN ANDERSON, JOSEPH G. MOORE, AND LAURA SUSKI

Sociology of Home draws on sociological approaches to family, urban and rural communities, and migration and immigration to discuss the idea of “home”—an intensely personal concept that is, in its varying iterations, bound to larger economic and political systems.

Moving from private homemaking to community building to political ecology, authors investigate home as a constructed space within the context of a diverse set of cultural, political, built, and natural landscapes that ground Canadian experiences. This comprehensive introductory reader explores a diversity of homes and homemaking and is an important contribution to the sociological studies of home, family, environment, gender, and social inequality.

Gillian Anderson is a Professor of Sociology at Vancouver Island University. Joseph G. Moore is a Professor of Anthropology and Sociology at Douglas College. Laura Suski is a Professor of Sociology, Liberal Studies, and Global Studies at Vancouver Island University.
